

Golf tourney raises funds for mammography testing at HMC

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Thanks to the ongoing efforts of a hardworking group of Bay St. Louis women, several hundred local residents received mammography testing at no charge or for a nominal fee.

Donations to the Hancock Medical Center Foundation's Mammography Assistance Program enable qualifying women to access this essential health screening.

"We don't want any woman to go without this necessary test because she can't afford it," said local "Pride With A Purpose" co-founder Linda Tucker.

Tucker said most of her friends have had someone in their lives touched by breast cancer. Many with positive outcomes live normally today because of early detection.

"I have had too many women tell me they 'can't afford it' as a reason for not having an annual mammogram. Lots of women work, but don't have insurance benefits, and are not old enough for Medicare or don't qualify for Medicaid," said Tucker. "These are the ones we want to take advantage of this program."

Women may be referred to the program through Coastal Family Health in Bay St. Louis.

Residents will have an opportunity to support the Mammography Assistance Program by competing in the second annual "Golf With A Purpose" scramble tournament Friday, June 18 at the award winning Bridges Golf Course at Casino Magic, Bay St. Louis. A 9 a.m. shotgun start is planned.

Fee is $65 per golfer, which includes an event t-shirt and picnic lunch. Hole sponsorships are available for $100. Sponsor signs will also be on display during a two-day outdoor festival on the golf tournament organizers, grounds at 1205 Blue Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis.

Live music, volleyball competition, arts, crafts and food will be featured Saturday and Sunday, June 19-20 beginning at noon each day. Admission is $10 each day, according to event organizer Charlene Schneider.

For additional information, or to register for the golf tournament, call (228) 467-7298.

No setback for waterfront deck, but more may be in store

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Lynn Shirley will be allowed to keep a deck she attached to her waterfront Shoreline Park home without proper permits. Shirley appealed a decision by the Hancock County Planning and Zoning Board ordering her to remove the structure. The deck also violated setbacks because it was too close to the water. The deck was 11 feet from the property line in an area where a 20 foot setback is required.

Supervisors overturned the Planning and Zoning Board decision because of the expense already involved in building the deck and because the structure didn't obstruct any views. Shirley was ordered to pay the $40 permit fee and forfeit the $250 appeal fee as a fine for building without proper permits and variances.

To help further her case Shirley said she canvassed various waterfront neighborhoods taking pictures of other decks and structures that she said violated variance requirements, putting an address on each photograph. Supervisors kept these pictures and said they will be turned over to the county building permit office for further investigation.

In other business:

• Springwood Land and Development Assoc. LLC, represented by Willie Gavagnie, appeared before Supervisors to defend their request for a variance to allow a mobile home park at the intersection of Hwy. 90 and Cypress Dr.

Several neighbors appeared to protest the approval of the park by the Planning and Zoning Board, saying that the increased traffic and lack of sewer would further complicate problems in the neighborhood. They were also concerned about garbage disposal and over crowding in the park itself.

A variance was required because the law states that such a development cannot be constructed on less than a five acre plot of land. The proposed location contains 4.48 acres.

Gavagnie said that the developers, whose names he could not disclose, would scale the development to fit within required setbacks. Unless sewer service could be guaranteed to the development, construction would not take place, he said. A perimeter of vegetation would be left in place, he said, and garbage would be serviced with an on site dumpster. Utilities would be underground, he said.

Supervisors will make a decision on the matter at the next regular meeting on June 23. A site plan would also have to be approved by the Planning and Zoning Board before any construction could begin.

• Sissy Gonzales has been hired as the new Hancock County Comptroller.

• Government relations representative for Mediacom, Barbara Bonowicz, asked supervisors for permission to lay lines in area rights of way, which they approved, contingent on the company agreeing to register all their local service vehicles in the county.

In addressing rising cable rates Bonowicz said that sports channels are responsible for the sharpest rise in rates, going up 59 percent in the last three years, compared with rate hikes of 26 percent for non-sport channels.

But you can't just expect to drop sport channels to save money, she said. Programming is controlled by four major conglomerates: CBS/Viacom/UPN, Disney/ABC, GENBC, and News Corp/Fox. The conglomerates package a variety of channels together and cable outlets must purchase the entire package, Bonowicz said. For instance, to receive the History Channel and a host of other channels, you must buy ESPN.

Bonowicz said satellite providers do not currently work under the same limitations, but that rules governing satellite service is expected to change in the near future.

It's Coastal Cleanup time!

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Business After Hours is set for Thursday, June 17, 5 to 7 p.m.

This month's will be a Summer BBQ Blow-out, and sponsored by Enterprise Rent-a-Car and Champion Chrysler-Dodge-Jeep, 725 & 801 Highway 90, Bay St. Louis.

With our weather as hot as it is, a BBQ sounds very good this time of year.

I have been told that Enterprise Rent-a-Car and Champion Chrysler-Dodge-Jeep will also be providing some cool and relaxing beverages for the After Hours.

This chamber monthly event is great because it gives one an opportunity to meet old friends and make new acquaintances.

I hope to see you at the After Hours on Thursday evening.

Just for general information, the Mississippi Marine Debris Task Force is already planning the September 18 Coastal Cleanup.

On Thursday, Betsy Ashman, Darlene Underwood and I, representing the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Beautification Committee, attended the Task Force's first planning meeting, along with representatives from Harrison and Jackson Counties.

Lauren Thompson, public relations director for the Department of Marine Resources (DMR), is the state's coordinator for the International Cleanup.

DMR plays a very important role in the cleanup and last year 4,520 people collected more than 36 tons of trash from Mississippi's coastal beaches and inland shorelines during the cleanup.

Since many of us reside within the Bay, a river, canal, bayou, etc., just about all litter - if not properly collected - will eventually end up in the Bay.

Some interesting information distributed from the U.S. National Park Service: Mote Maritime Lab, Sarasota, FL, and "Garbage In, Garbage Out," Audubon magazine, may surprise many.

Think about this: "It takes longer than you think for debris to decompose..." when tossed into water.

As a for instance: apple core, 2 months; cigarette filter, 1 - 5 years; foamed plastic cups, 50 years; tin can, 50 years; aluminum can, 80 to 200 years; plastic beverage bottle, 450 years; monofilament fishing line, 600 years; and glass bottle, 1 million years.

We are hoping the number of volunteers in Hancock County for this year's coastal cleanup will top the 441 of last year.

As the date nears, we will be giving you more information on the cleanup.

WWII Memorial worth the wait

WASHINGTON--One headline in the Washington Post described it as the "Final Muster."

The New York Times said World War II veterans at last had their place in the sun. (The "sun" part turned out sooo right, I can testify.)

New York Times columnist Maureen Dowd, known usually for coining acerbic phrases, watched some of us oldies visiting the WWII Memorial for the first (or sea in ships or logged last?) time and called us "adorable."

Let the record show that I endorse all of the above.

Certainly for me, being here in the company of thousands of us vets' of WWII vintage for the dedication of the long-awaited tribute in stone and bronze to our wartime service, was one of the most memorable experiences of my life.

Yet our hearts went out to the many thousands of others who also went down to the sea in ships or logged across worldwide battlefields during WWII, to those who were no longer alive, and those who could not personally share in this splendid moment.

The numbers tell the inexorable story: of 16.4 million of us who were in uniform during the war, less than one-third remain, and that number is diminishing by 1,200 daily.

Seeing the new memorial was exhilarating for those of us who came from all parts of the nation -- maybe no longer in the best of physical shape-- and it gave us a renewed sense of camaraderie.

Everywhere in Washington you could easily spot old vets right away, either because of some tell-tale insignia, or by the cap they wore on their graying or balding head, bearing some ship or unit designation.

(As I will relate later, my USS Stephen Potter cap paid some delightful dividends for me.)

As a gift when I had my 82nd birthday, Paul, our oldest son, promised to fly me to Washington for the WWII Memorial dedication if we could make the necessary arrangements for tickets and lodging.

When Sen. Thad Cochran came through with his two tickets in the reserved seating section for the dedica-

Remember Reagan

In 1980 it seemed the American dream was fading. We doubted our strength.

Our economy was severely faltering. The threat of a rapidly expanding communist empire headed by the Soviet Union seemed unstoppable and nuclear war inevitable. People were pessimistic about the future.

Then came an optimist to Washington. He was a man who said America's best days are ahead of us, that it was far from America's sunset, but a morning in America. By the time he left office in 1988, Ronald Reagan had proven what he said, changing America and the world for the better -- beyond anything, anyone but Reagan thought possible.

I am proud to have served him. In fact, I don't know where America would be today if he hadn't come along at the moment he did. As one of President Reagan's chief lieutenants in the U.S. House during the "Reagan Revolution" serving as House Minority Whip, I worked hard to implement President Reagan's agenda in Congress - legislation that brought us levels of prosperity and peace far beyond what anyone, except Ronald Reagan, could have thought possible in 1980.

Like so many Mississippians, I'll never forget when Ronald Reagan kicked off his first Presidential campaign at the Neshoba County Fair. His optimism about America seemed both boundless and contagious. Even though he had been successful as an actor and as California Governor, by the time Ronald Reagan was elected President, he was still an average guy from the Midwest - a man who never lost sight of his basic vision of an America that is strong and a world free from communism.

His critics tried to paint him as a simpleton. They were content for government to grow, to continue being a nanny state even though dependency on government was siphoning energy from Americans, crushing the entrepreneurial spirit that made our economy great. His critics seemed willing to live with communism even as one nation after another fell into dictatorship. Yet, Reagan trusted Americans and believed in American ideals.

He trusted our common sense, and he wanted the American people, not our government, to make decisions for themselves. To this end he passed sweeping tax cuts because he respected America's working people and thought they should be able to keep the fruits of their labor. He made it possible for millions of people to build businesses and have careers that today have created an American economy and living standard far beyond our closest comparable nation. He was so successful that by 1992, even his liberal detractors felt it necessary to follow his lead, claiming the "era of big government is over." That was further evidence showing Reagan truly changed our political landscape.

A man of faith, President Reagan told us evil dictatorships can't be pacified, that we must confront them. He called the Soviet Union an "evil empire" scorning communism for what it Godlessly did to human beings who are created in God's image. At first his hard line against the Soviet Union seemed to heighten tion ceremony, and my grandson let us have his tiny house in Georgetown, we were on the way.

Minor -- WWII Memorial

With my son and granddaughter (a D.C. lawyer) the day before Saturday's (May 29) dedication ceremony, I visited the sparkling new memorial for the first time. Over some objections and even litigation, the WWII Memorial was placed squarely between two icons, the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial, and, remarkably, obstructing the view of neither.

I walked (or more accurately, shuffled) from end-to-end of the semi-circular memorial plaza that is ringed by 56 granite pillars, one for each state or territory.

At one end stands a towering stone arch, with Atlantic inscribed on it, and Pacific inscribed on the other, denoting the two-ocean war fronts.

Of course, I gravitated toward the Pacific tower. That was my war, where for two years as a gunnery officer on my destroyer I helped damage the Japanese fleet and knock down some of their airplanes, while we dodged some close calls.

Every step of the way I hugged dozens of other vets also visiting "their" memorial for the first time, spotting especially old Navy guys and looking, hopefully but in vain, to find some of my Stephen Potter shipmates.

As mentioned, my Navy blue cap with the outline of my ship and DD 538 on it, and probably the gray hair, paid dividends. Twice young women in their 20s came right up and kissed me while thanking me for my service.

After the second, a particularly curvy lass, my son (a Vietnam vet) asked to borrow my cap. "No deal," I replied.

At the three-hour-long Saturday dedication ceremony, speakers ranged from Tom Hanks, to Tom Brokaw (who coined the term "Greatest Generation" for our era), to President Bush.

They all seemed to outdo each other in lauding and thanking us WWII vets.

Sitting side by side on the stage were two former presidents, George H. W. Bush and Bill Clinton, the latter who in 1993 signed the legislation establishing the memorial and gave a major boost to its private funding.

Former Senate Majority leader Bob Dole, himself wounded in Italy during the war, headed the commission that erected the monument. He sounded the emotional theme that "what we dedicate today is not a tribute to war... (but) a tribute to the physical and moral courage that makes heroes out of farm and city boys ... to lay down their lives for the ideals that make life itself worth living."

When my son went to the food tent set up behind us, he met a 50-ish woman from Wisconsin who said her 19-year-old daughter, in an army unit had been killed in Iraq seven months earlier.

With a Wisconsin friend she had been sent an airplane ticket by a Washington foundation to attend the memorial dedication. She insisted that we come sit in the chairs with them and we did.

Their seats were on a pathway that provided more leg room, next to the chairs reserved for Cabinet members and diplomats. Right down the pathway near us were chairs reserved for Sen. John Kerry, the Democratic presidential nominee.

When he arrived surrounded by press people and Secret Service, the Wisconsin lady made a bee-line to meet him and was given a long hug and condolences from him. My son and I followed behind her. Seeing my ship's cap and my WWII medals, Kerry bent his tall frame over to warmly shake my hand, and said "we're both Navy, thanks for your service."

The memorial design symbolically reflects a war that unified the entire nation as never before in our history, certainly a far cry from a nation today that is sharply divided over the invasion and occupation of Iraq.

WWII was the 20th century's defining event, a global war against a massive armed threat of the Axis Powers that cost 400,000 Americans their lives. It's a disservice to all of us who fought in that war for any politician now to equate it with America's nebulous "war on terrorism."

Lott -- Reagan

Cold War tensions, but by 1985 the tensions subsided.

Reagan had spearheaded the largest peacetime military buildup in history, and the corrupt, bankrupt Soviet communist system just could not match it.

Gradually the Soviets began to embrace democratic reforms. By 1989, the Communist empire in Eastern Europe began to fall apart, one satellite state at a time. The next year, the Soviet Union itself crumbled. It was breathtaking. Ronald Reagan, in just eight short years, had helped overturn a century of totalitarian lies. Today full-scale nuclear conflict is hardly pondered. Communism, as he predicted, has been dismissed from serious thought.

Ronald Reagan was right. America had better days ahead back in 1980. We still do.

The complex problems of our day seem to pale when you really think about what could have happened, if Ronald Reagan hadn't come preaching his message of personal optimism, smaller government, military strength and self-confident, unapologetic American assertion.

His lessons are still applicable today. America must remain confident and strong. Ronald Reagan's message appealed to Americans because the things he stood for really are America, the real America -- a shining city on a hill, where it's always the morning of a better day.

Kopf -- superintendent, board in dispute

because Mr. Kopf informed us at the June 3 meeting that he would not submit another recommendation for A.D.," Ladner said. "We have been trying for over four months to get this issue resolved. During the meeting, an audience member informed members of the board that two interviews for the position were scheduled for Monday. This information was confirmed by the superintendent."

"I do not have an answer as to why he did not give this information to the board nor do I know why the audience member had access to it. Though we took this action because the superintendent said he would not submit another applicant, in light of the new information, the board will wait for the scheduled interviews to take place."

"Right now, we're in a perpetual circle," Seal said.

"We look like a dog chasing its own tail."

Ladner also felt the board was running out of time to find a candidate.

"Personally, I think we need to appoint another administrator to bring us a recommendation," she said.

Seal's motion to appoint a committee passed with a 3-2 vote, although some board members, particularly Cheryl Bennett, district two, were vehemently against it. Bennett said that appointing employees without including the superintendent in the process would create resentment between Kopf and the new athletic director.

"Ultimately, (the A.D.) would have to answer to Mr. Kopf," Bennett said.

The board finally agreed to appoint a committee to find potential candidates, who would be presented to Kopf for approval before the board voted on them.

Seal said that he felt a committee would greatly expedite the process.

"Mr. Kopf has previously indicated that he would not be making any more recommendations," Seal said. "I actually suggested the committee approach to the president (Ladner) since we had only received two valid recommendations in four months and the process was taking too long. I felt that if we used the work done previously by the superintendent as a screening process, then a five-person committee should be able to formulate a recommendation that the superintendent and a majority of the board could live with."

Ladner was also for this idea.

"It has been our experience, that committees the district has used in the past worked very quickly," she said.

Kopf was against the idea of a committee from the beginning, saying it would only delay the process even more, and that the school board was circumventing his authority.

"I've got several e-mails from the board president (regarding the A.D. position). I've ignored most of them," Kopf said.

Kopf also stated that the board had no right to go around him in this instance. Ladner, and the school board attorney said that under statute 37-9-17 of the state board of education, the board has the authority to do just that.

Kopf repeatedly questioned that interpretation of the law, and accused Ladner of having meetings without him (Kopf) being present.

When Ladner said that her consulting with the board attorney didn't constitute a meeting, Kopf fired back, "I want to know because it costs $50 an hour."

Several Hancock County citizens in attendance were not amused by the board's in-fighting. Beth Seymour, wife of District Four Supervisor Steve Seymour, was particularly vocal in her disapproval.

"You are in the public eye," she told the board. "I'm not trying to be your enemy. I'm trying to be your friend. I think there are people on this board who are (opposing Kopf) for their own political reasons. If you ask anyone in this community, it's three against two, and it's all against Mr. Kopf."

Seymour said that the controversy had been ridiculous from the start, ever since former athletic coordinator Rocky Gaudin had been told that he could not hold the director's position. "You screwed Rocky Gaudin out of his retirement, and got away with it," she said.

Ladner said this information was inaccurate.

"The would-be reduction in retirement is slight because it is only affected by the loss of a supplement for six months," she said on Friday. "However, he was able to gain an increase in his retirement because the administration allowed him to assume dual positions for three years despite their decision in 1999 that he should be a full time Coach of Athletics."

Kopf said Thursday that he still felt obligated to act as athletic director. He added that he was unhappy with the board's decisions.

"I'm disappointed. I think (the committee) will slow down the process, and I'm disappointed that they didn't pick the last three candidates."

The hostile atmosphere was still present once the meeting ended Thursday. Kopf and Andrew Ladner, the board president's husband, got into a heated argument. Peggy Ladner said on Friday that her husband had approached the superintendent to ask him to keep his comments to her "professional," and Kopf responded by shouting at him. Kopf could not be reached for further comment.

Trees -- Bay advisor resigns in protest

Highway 90 next to Urgi-Care several years ago.

Remel contends that he's the only one authorized to issue permits for protected tree removal. "I regretfully resign the position as Tree Protection Advisor of B.S.L. because I am unable to carry out the responsibilities that pertain to the position," he said in a letter that he threw down on council's meeting table.

Remel, a certified arborist, urban forester and tree surgeon, was appointed by the mayor and confirmed by City Council to his position in May 1991.

At the core of the controversy are building plans for the property bounded by Ulman Street and North Beach Boulevard. Property owner John Callender, Jr., had sought to divide the L-shaped tract into three parcels last February to build two more structures on the land.

City officials rejected that request, because it would have created three substandard-sized parcels. Later, Callender sought permission to make two lots out of the land, a request that was approved Tuesday. No further subdivision can be allowed on the tract, officials said.

But in the meantime, Callender had his contractor clear a piece of property at the southern end of the Beach Boulevard segment, including removal of a huge live oak and several other trees. That was done with Carrigee's verbal approval.

The live oak tree was cut down and removed by an off-duty city employee. But Remel wasn't called into the matter until after the work was done.

City officials remember giving Carrigee tree removal permitting authority in the mid 1990s, when Casino Magic was clearing its golf course acreage. Remel had a conflict of interest in that matter, because he was advising Casino Magic.

Whether Carrigee's authority was tied only to that project, or was a permanent assignment of authority, remains in question. And now that Remel has quit, it's a key question.

Thriffley, meanwhile, contends that Callender's tract has more than enough room to accommodate a new residence without putting it in the corner where the trees stood.

"This is a bad situation for Bay St. Louis ... This is just a terrible, terrible farce," said Thriffley.

Thriffley said the contractor and building official were well aware that a written permit was required before the lot was cleared. The only person who didn't know about the law, he added, was the property owner.

The controversy has involved a number of beach area residents, who have expressed concern over the tree removal and plans for construction.

Mayor Eddie Favre told council Tuesday that the city is enforcing the tree protection ordinance, despite the controversy. When Remel challenged that statement, at-large council member Bill Taylor angrily called Remel "out of order."

Taylor said it's up to the mayor and administration to enforce the ordinances, and manage the daily affairs of government.

In other property matters Tuesday, council endorsed building plans for a residential development next to Riemann's Funeral home on Highway 90. Developer Robert Kane said the project will include 16 single family homes, and a couple of low-density office buildings on the highway.

Council assigned a single family residential zoning category to the property, rather than the multi-family zoning Kane originally had sought. He agreed to that change after officials assured him the single family zoning would accommodate the size of the lots which are planned.

Council also stuck with single family zoning for a North Beach Boulevard parcel owned by Ann S. Tidwell, but agreed to a special exception which will allow her to rent out a cottage on the property. The special exception will expire if the cottage stays vacant for six months, or if the property ownership changes, council stipulated.

The zoning matters drew a substantial crowd to City Hall Annex, as neighbors of the properties had aired a number of concerns over the applications at issue.

Shrimp -- good weather for opening day

working," said DMR Shrimp and Crab Bureau Director Mike Brainard. "The sizes are good 36-40 and 41-50 count."

The Department of Marine Resources (DMR) marine fisheries staff completed an aerial survey of the shrimp boats on opening day and observed a decrease in the number of shrimp boats: 538 shrimp boats this year compared to 1,067 shrimp boats last year possibly due to high fuel costs and low shrimp prices. The majority of boats were congregated between Ship and Horn islands.

The total number of commercial shrimp licenses sold this year was 814 consisting of 600 resident and 214 non-resident and 201 recreational shrimp licenses were sold. Prior to the season opening, the DMR's Marine Patrol issued two citations for shrimping during closed season.

"Law enforcement was extremely pleased with the fishermen's compliance with the rules and regulations of the fishing industry," said Col. George Wright, Sr. of the DMR's Marine Patrol. "The number of violations has reduced greatly due to the cooperative efforts between Marine Patrol and the commercial fishermen."

The DMR's Marine Patrol was out in full force starting at 4:30 a.m. June 9 and worked 'round the clock to ensure a smooth shrimp season opening. This included 30 officers, four reserve officers and two dispatchers. Marine Patrol officers conducted patrols from 12 patrol boats throughout the Mississippi Sound. Marine Patrol made three arrests on opening day and responded to two boat sinkings-none resulting in death or injury.

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources is dedicated to enhancing, protecting and conserving marine interests of the State by managing all marine life, public trust wetlands, adjacent uplands and waterfront areas to provide for the optimal commercial, recreational, educational and economic uses of these resources consistent with environmental concerns and social changes. ## Breerwood steps down as Wildcat soccer coach

Dr. Adam Breerwood is stepping down as men's and women's soccer coach at Pearl River Community College to devote full time to his position as Dean of Student Affairs at the two-year college.

Breerwood, a native of Bay St. Louis, is the school's first and only soccer coach. In the five-year existence of the soccer programs at PRCC, Breerwood has guided at least one of his teams into the postseason every year.

The 2003 men's soccer team defeated Hinds last October for PRCC's first-ever MACJC State and Region 23 soccer titles before losing to Tyler (Texas) Junior College in the Mid-Southwest District Tournament. The 2003 Wildcats finished the season with a 17-3-2 record.

"I have thoroughly enjoyed serving PRCC in this capacity over the last five seasons," said Breerwood. "Having the opportunity to take a program from its conception and watch it progress to State and Regional Championships has been a wonderful experience. This has been a tough decision for me. I will miss the players and the comradery we have shared."

"Coach Breerwood brought a level of excitement to Wildcat soccer, especially this past season when they won our first state championship," said PRCC President William Lewis.

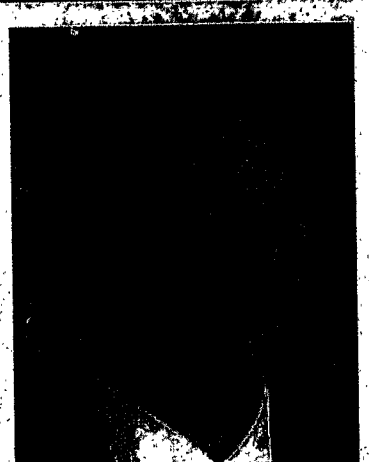

During Breerwood's time as soccer coach, the PRCC men had a 58-21-5 record. The women were 64-21-4. His women's teams at PRCC won South Division titles in 2000, 2002 and 2003. He was named 2003 Men's MACJC State and Region XXXIII Coach of the Year.

With enrollment at PRCC at all-time high and with added administrative responsibilities, Breerwood feels this decision is in the best interest of PRCC.

"I take an exceptional amount of pride in leaving this post atop of the league," he said. "I know a solid foundation has been laid for Pearl River Community College soccer for many years to come. I have been blessed with excellent support from our administration and look forward to the new challenges that lie ahead as the Dean of Student Affairs."

Lewis said the search for a replacement for Breerwood is underway. Applications will be accepted until June 25. A search committee, made up of faculty, students and representatives from throughout Pearl River's six-county district, will then review the applications and schedule interviews.

"This is a very important position at this institution and we plan to screen each applicant carefully before beginning the interviews," said Lewis. He hopes to have a recommendation in time for the July meeting of the school's Board of Trustees.

As far as qualifications for candidates, a master's degree is preferred, with a successful background in soccer coaching.

"The coach we select must possess highly developed interpersonal, administrative and organizational skills," said Lewis. "He must have the ability to motivate and inspire young student-athletes."

Send letter of interest, application, resume-transcripts and three letters of reference to: President's Office, Pearl River Community College, P.O. Box 5090, Poplarville, MS 39470.

Social Security recipients warned about potential scams

Jo Anne Barnhart, Commissioner of Social Security and Patrick O'Carroll, Jr., Acting Inspector General of Social Security issued a warning recently about a number of scams that have surfaced throughout the U.S. They noted that the Agency has received numerous reports about telephone calls or visits from people alleging to be Social Security employees. In each case, the person attempted to obtain personal information, such as a Social Security or bank account number, from the Social Security recipient.

"I find it very troubling that our most vulnerable citizens are being targeted by these unscrupulous people," Commissioner Barnhart stated. "I caution everyone to be extremely careful about releasing personal information."

The perpetrators, who identify themselves as Social Security employees, have used a variety of tactics to obtain personal information. In one instance, the caller said the Agency was experiencing a power outage and needed to verify the person's information. In another, the caller posed as an employee who needed to verify the recipient's direct deposit information.

In a third, the recipient is told their Social Security benefits are being cut because they have inherited a house from a relative; an event that would not result in a reduction of their Social Security benefit according to Commissioner Barnhart.

To help perpetrate the fraud, the caller then places the recipient on hold and plays the same on-hold recordings used by Social Security. When the caller gets back on the line, the recipient is then told proceeds from the sale of the house will be sent to them if they pay the back taxes.

Acting Inspector General O'Carroll recommends people always take precautions when giving out personal information. "You should never provide your Social Security number or other personal information over the telephone unless you initiated the contact, or are confident of the person to whom you are speaking," O'Carroll said. "If in doubt, do not release information without first verifying the validity of the call." Barnhart and O'Carroll recommend contacting the local Social Security office or Social Security's toll-free number at 1-800-772-1213 to verify the legitimacy of the call.

Acting Inspector General O'Carroll notes that the Office of Inspector General (OIG) is working closely with the Agency to investigate all reports of suspicious activity. To report suspicious activity, please call the 'OIG Hotline' at 1-800-269-0271. A Public Fraud Reporting form is also available online at: <http://www.socialsecurity.gov/oig/>

Telemarketers testing loopholes in Mississippi's no-call law

BY LYNDIA EDWARDS
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—There are exemptions to state law which forbids telemarketers from calling residents who register their names on the state's no-call list.

Newspapers can still make telemarketing pitches to potential subscribers. Licensed real estate agents may place phone calls. A company can still dial up its own customers, even those who signed up for no-call list, to pitch additional products.

But what if a Mississippi customer has a charge card with a chain of gas stations that has parent or sister companies that sell insurance or Florida condos or magazine subscriptions?

In this age of mergers and acquisitions, a corporate family can have hundreds of members. Can telemarketers from the entire corporate family bombard a customer, even on Mississippi's no-call list, with sales pitches?

In many states, telemarketers could slide thought that legal loophole.

"But not in Mississippi; here, that would be a violation of Mississippi's no-call law," said Public Service Commissioner Nielsen Cochran.

Mississippians were first allowed to register on the state's no-call list on July 7 last year. Within 10 days, about 115,000 Mississippians placed their names on it.

Telemarketers and debt collection firms may not call those registered. To do business in Mississippi, a telemarketer must register with the state, pay $800 annually to buy Mississippi's no-call list and post a bond to cover potential fines.

Mississippi telemarketers who phone no-call registrants are liable for a $5,000 fine for each illegal call. Nationwide telemarketers who violate Mississippi's no-call list can face an $11,000 per-call fine.

But telemarketers are testing innovative end-runs around the stringent policy.

BellSouth external affairs director Patsy

Tolleson said that BellSouth sells its customer lists to Nebraska-based Walter Karl Inc. The customer service firm then sells the information to telemarketers.

"It's up to Walter Karl to monitor those telemarketers and make sure that they don't violate no-call lists," Tolleson said.

"BellSouth does not let any telemarketer sell a product by using BellSouth's name during a sales pitch," he said.

BellSouth does have a privacy agreement available for customers who do not want their names on any telemarketer's rolodex. Mississippi customers who want that option should call 1-888-757-6500. Tolleson said there is no way to make the request online.

Since Mississippi's no-call list unrolled last summer, Cochran says his agency has gotten 1,408 complaints with sufficient information for us to conduct an investigation about telemarketing violations. He advises Mississippians to suffer through a recorded telemarketing call to get the caller's phone number.

His investigators also need to know what time the call occurred and whether Caller ID was blocked. "We wait a few days after we get a complaint to see if there is a trend, whether the violations are clustered in one region of Mississippi, because sometimes that can help us figure out where calls originate," Cochran said.

He conceded that some victims get too frustrated to fill out a form.

"Bless their hearts, they call and say, 'Nielsen, just stop these damn calls,'" he said.

Currently, he is negotiating with telemarketers who violated Mississippi law but are making a good faith effort to comply. Three companies were facing over $2.3 million in Mississippi fines by December of last year for no-call violations. Cochran said that DirectTV is trying to work out a settlement after hearing it was liable for $500,000 in fines.

DirectTV said that the company is structured so that individual offices do business under the DirectTV name without the main office being responsible for the personnel," Cochran said. He made it clear that the company needs to ensure that personnel using the company name in Mississippi need to know the state's law.

Cities, companies compete for new NASA facility

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP) — Houston offered up low taxes, a diverse workforce and a temperate climate.

Newport News advertised its upscale business district, rich cultural attractions and low cost of living.

Orlando, home of Walt Disney World, plugged its "worldwide brand of imagination and creativity."

Mississippi is offering a new $21 million building at the Stennis Space Center, and Louisiana, expected to provide one-quarter of the workers, $1 million in training.

Hoping to lure a new NASA business center with at least 500 employees, officials from six cities with ties to NASA made competing pitches last week in Fairfax at a NASA-sponsored forum for interested bidders. The NASA Shared Services Center, expected to open next year, is designed to consolidate finance, procurement, information technology and personnel offices scattered among about ten NASA centers across the country.

The city that lands the new center will gain between 500 and 800 new workers with an average of salary of about $60,000, NASA officials have said. At the opening of a two-day forum, about 200 contractors and economic development officials from across the country packed a hotel conference room to sell their respective cities and size up the competition.

Picking a city is a two-step process, officials said. A city first must be included in a prime contractor's bid, and then NASA must select a winning contractor.

Other companies expected to make bids include IBM and Lockheed Martin Corp., both of which sent representatives to the forum. But contractors declined to discuss their proposals or the cities they may prefer.

Also competing for the center are Cleveland and Huntsville, Ala. Bids must be submitted to NASA by September, officials said, with a selection to be made by NASA next March. The center is slated to open as early as October of 2005.

Social Security recipients warned about potential scams

Jo Anne Barnhart, Commissioner of Social Security and Patrick O'Carroll, Jr., Acting Inspector General of Social Security issued a warning recently about a number of scams that have surfaced throughout the U.S. They noted that the Agency has received numerous reports about telephone calls or visits from people alleging to be Social Security employees. In each case, the person attempted to obtain personal information, such as a Social Security or bank account number, from the Social Security recipient.

"I find it very troubling that our most vulnerable citizens are being targeted by these unscrupulous people," Commissioner Barnhart stated. "I caution everyone to be extremely careful about releasing personal information."

The perpetrators, who identify themselves as Social Security employees, have used a variety of tactics to obtain personal information. In one instance, the caller said the Agency was experiencing a power outage and needed to verify the person's information. In another, the caller posed as an employee who needed to verify the recipient's direct deposit information.

In a third, the recipient is told their Social Security benefits are being cut because they have inherited a house from a relative; an event that would not result in a reduction of their Social Security benefit according to Commissioner Barnhart.

To help perpetrate the fraud, the caller then places the recipient on hold and plays the same on-hold recordings used by Social Security. When the caller gets back on the line, the recipient is then told proceeds from the sale of the house will be sent to them if they pay the back taxes.

Acting Inspector General O'Carroll recommends people always take precautions when giving out personal information. "You should never provide your Social Security number or other personal information over the telephone unless you initiated the contact, or are confident of the person to whom you are speaking," O'Carroll said. "If in doubt, do not release information without first verifying the validity of the call." Barnhart and O'Carroll recommend contacting the local Social Security office or Social Security's toll-free number at 1-800-772-1213 to verify the legitimacy of the call.

Acting Inspector General O'Carroll notes that the Office of Inspector General (OIG) is working closely with the Agency to investigate all reports of suspicious activity. To report suspicious activity, please call the OIG Hotline at 1-800-269-0271. A Public Fraud Reporting form is also available online at OIG's website: <http://www.socialsecurity.gov/oig/> or <http://www.socialsecurity.gov/oig/>.

Telemarketers testing loopholes in Mississippi's no-call law

BY LYNDIA EDWARDS
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—There are exemptions to state law which forbids telemarketers from calling residents who register their names on the state's no-call list.

Newspapers can still make telemarketing pitches to potential subscribers. Licensed real estate agents may place "phone calls" to a company can still dial up its own customers, even those who signed up for no-call list, to pitch additional products.

But what if a Mississippi customer has a charge card with a chain of gas stations that has parent or sister companies that sell insurance or Florida condos or magazine subscriptions?

In this age of mergers and acquisitions, a corporate family can have hundreds of members. Can telemarketers from the entire corporate family bombard a customer, even on Mississippi's no-call list, with sales pitches?

In many states, telemar-

keters could slide thought that legal loophole.

"But not in Mississippi; here, that would be a violation of Mississippi's no-call law," said Public Service Commissioner Nielsen Cochran.

Mississippians were first allowed to register on the state's no-call list on July 7 last year. Within 10 days, about 115,000 Mississippians placed their names on it.

Telemarketers and debt collection firms may not call those registered. To do business in Mississippi, a telemarketer must register with the state, pay $800 annually to buy Mississippi's no-call list and post a bond to cover potential fines.

Mississippi telemarketers who phone no-call registrants are liable for a $5,000 fine for each illegal call. Nationwide telemarketers who violate Mississippi's no-call list can face an $11,000 per-call fine.

But telemarketers are testing innovative end-runs around the stringent policy.

BellSouth external affairs director Patsy

Tolleson said that BellSouth sells its customer lists to Nebraska-based Walter Karl Inc. The customer service firm then sells the information to telemarketers.

"It's up to Walter Karl to monitor those telemarketers and make sure that they don't violate no-call lists," Tolleson said. "BellSouth does not let any telemarketer sell a product by using BellSouth's name during a sales pitch." BellSouth "does" have a privacy agreement available for customers who do not want their names on any telemarketer's rolodex. Mississippi customers who want that option should call 1-888-757-6500. Tolleson said there is no way to make the request online.

Since Mississippi's no-call list unrolled last summer, Cochran says his agency has gotten 1,408 complaints "with sufficient information for us to conduct an investigation" about telemarketing violations. He advises Mississippians to suffer through a recorded telemarketing call to get the caller's phone number.

His investigators also need to know what time the call occurred and whether Caller ID was blocked. "We wait a few days after we get a complaint to see if there is a trend, whether the violations are clustered in one region of Mississippi, because sometimes that can help us figure out where calls originate," Cochran said.

He conceded that some victims get too frustrated to fill out a form.

"Bless their hearts, they call and say, 'Nielsen, just stop these dadgum calls,'" he said.

Currently, he is negotiating with telemarketers who violated Mississippi law but are making a good faith effort to comply. Three companies were facing over $2.3 million in Mississippi fines by December of last year for no-call violations. Cochran said that DirectTV is trying to work out a settlement after hearing it was liable for $500,000 in fines.

DirectTV said that the company is structured so that individual offices do business under the DirectTV name without the main office being responsible for the personnel," Cochran said. He made it clear that the company needs to ensure that personnel using the company name in Mississippi need to know the state's law.

Cities, companies compete for new NASA facility

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP)—Houston offered up low taxes, a diverse workforce and a temperate climate.

Newport News advertised its upscale business district, rich cultural attractions and low cost of living.

Orlando, home of Walt Disney World, plugged its "worldwide brand of imagination and creativity."

Mississippi is offering a new $21 million building at the Stennis Space Center, and Louisiana, expected to provide one-quarter of the workers, $1 million in training.

Hoping to lure a new NASA business center with at least 500 employees, officials from six cities with ties to NASA made competing pitches last week in Fairfax at a NASA-sponsored forum for interested bidders. The NASA Shared Services Center, expected to open late next year, is designed to consolidate finance, procurement, information technology and personnel offices scattered among about ten NASA centers across the country.

The city that lands the new center will gain between 500 and 800 new workers with an average of about $60,000, NASA officials have said. At the opening of a two-day forum, about 200 contractors and economic development officials from across the country packed a hotel conference room to sell their respective cities and size up the competition.

Picking a city is a two-step process, officials said. A city first must be included in a prime contractor's bid, and then NASA must select a winning contractor.

Other companies expected to make bids include IBM and Lockheed Martin Corp., both of which sent representatives to the forum. But contractors declined to discuss their proposals or the cities they may prefer.

Also competing for the center are Cleveland and Huntsville, Ala. Bids must be submitted to NASA by September, officials said, with a selection to be made by NASA next March. The center is slated to open as early as October of 2005.

'A Gift of Love' helps build Hope Haven

Frances Topp never visited Hope Haven Children's Shelter. She did not have any children of her own. But she cared deeply about children and was sorely troubled by the fact that too many children were being abused and neglected.

She discussed her concern with her best friend and the women who cared for her over the last ten plus years of her life, Harriet Koerner. With Harriet's guidance and support, Mrs. Topp left Hope Haven a donation that will serve as the foundation for the organization's newly created Endowment Fund, "The New Beginnings Fund".

Mrs. Topp lived to be 92 and had her full faculties and a lively wit right up to the end according to Harriet. She moved here from New Orleans where she worked at K and B Drug Store on Canal Street for over 30 years.

She spent over 40 years living in Waveland, although she traveled extensively and loved to share her memories with Mrs. Koerner.

In addition to caring about children, she loved animals and kept many cats. They, along with Harriet, became her family as she grew older and less able to leave her home. Harriet helped Mrs. Topp contact a lawyer to complete the paperwork to leave a legacy of love to Hope Haven and to the Waveland Animal Shelter.

On May 19 at the Hope Haven Board meeting, Harriet Koerner, with tears in her eyes and love in her heart for her departed friend, honored the last wish of Mrs. Topp and presented a check for $55,014.55 to Margie Touns, President of the Board of Hope Haven Children's Shelter.

Fourteen white boats on a bright day in June

We are in the middle of a tragedy. I don't mean one of the proportions of an earthquake in Tehran, or a catastrophic flood in Guatemala, but a pervasive, more personal tragedy. It is a tragedy that if it continues to unfold as it is doing now, will sharply affect the quality of life that we enjoy on the coast.

We have been caught unawares. We have concentrated much of our attention on protecting our marshes, our bayous, the water in the Sound as well as the air above it. And this is rightly so, these all need monitoring, protecting.

But to have a basic aspect of our lives to all but collapse as we watch and for it to happen so swiftly despite strong warning signs, is an overwhelming event.

What am I talking about? To properly put it in perspective, let me repeat what I wrote on a June day five years ago:

"As night fell last night, we watched shrimp boats gathering, spreading out in the Sound in front of us, slowly filling our field of view. There were so many lights on the water, we felt as if we were watching not boats, but the street lights of a new town extending on and on. We slept in the front room and through the night we could hear the throb of engines. There were more than 600 boats out there, gathering, waiting for dawn and the opening of the Mississippi shrimp season."

"This morning's light revealed a large fleet of every conceivable size and type stretching across the horizon. It appears from our shore perspective to be complete confusion as the boats move about. They must, it would seem, run into one another or at least cut across each other's trawl lines. But they don't."

"They move slowly, gathering in uneven clumps or loose clusters. Sometimes they are in the very front of Carrere's long pier so as to seem to almost hit it and then in a short while they are gone to another spot."

A better life ... maybe

Katherine and Sandra today, two months after a successful kidney transplant in which Sandra was the perfect match for a donor. Now, just when the two though life would get better, a new state law signed in by Governor Barbour, will cut drug benefits necessary for Katherine's survival.

Diamondhead mom's kidney donation may be in vain thanks to Medicaid cuts

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Two months ago, life took a definite turn for the better for Katherine McChesney and her mother Sandra McChesney of Diamondhead. Katherine had found out three years before that she suffered from a rare kidney disease, Membranous Nephropathy, but after months of testing, had located the perfect organ donor — her mother Sandra.

The operation to replace her diseased kidneys was a complete success and life was taking a positive turn for the young single mother. For the first time in three years, she was able to think about life without the thrice-weekly dialysis that left her weak and unable to function.

"The dialysis makes you feel so bad and just leaves you with nothing," said Katherine.

Katherine McChesney, right, with her daughter, Madelyn and her mother Sandra a little over three years ago, just before she found out she has a terminal kidney disease that would require a transplant.

Sandra wants people to know how easy it is to be a donor, so maybe someone else will consider giving the gift of life to another person: "I was out of the hospital the next day," she said.

Katherine was born with the disease,

Modern petunias couple beauty with durability

In the last 10 years in Mississippi, I have witnessed an incredible explosion in the petunia's popularity. Growers love its toughness and much longer season of performance.

Petunias make great landscape plants that you can set out any time during our growing season, even in the fall. So if you find high-quality transplants at the garden center, don't hesitate to buy and plant them.

revival, and now there are Waves, Easy Waves and Tidal Waves. Why all the adjustment in names? Look at it this way: while the old Pink Wave and Purple Wave were both outstanding plants, they did have different characteristics. The Purple Wave was more ground-hugging, spreading and prostrate. The Pink Wave was mounding and didn't spread as much.

The name variations simply group the Waves into categories where they will have the same growth habit: Waves are spreading and prostrate, Easy Waves are spreading but more mounding, and Tidal Waves are the tallest. In fact, the Tidal Wave's enormous size prompted the naming of a new class of petunia called hedgflora.

Wait until you see what is next in their offerings: Easy Wave Blue and the long-awaited Easy Wave Red. Keep your eyes open for these, but don't forget there are other outstanding petunias, like the Suncatcher series.

The Suncatcher series was introduced by Ball FloraPlant, a sister company to Pan American Seed, which brought us the Waves. The Suncatchers are different in that they are vegetatively propagated versus seed propagated. In trials at the Truck Crops Branch Experiment Station in Crystal Springs, they have performed with great vigor

Transplant -- Medicaid cuts

which progresses slowly and is usually not detected until severe damage has already taken place. A biopsy is required to diagnose the disease.

All Katherine wanted to think about after the surgery was raising her four-year-old daughter, Madelyn Robbins, of whom she shares joint custody; of going back to school to earn a degree; and getting well.

The operation caused no complications for either Katherine or Sandra and Sandra's donated kidney was such a good match that recovery was speeding along. Transplanted organs don't last forever, Sandra and Katherine were told, but with a match as good as theirs and good care, the kidney could last Katherine as long as 16 years.

Very limited activity is recommended for the first six months of recovery, Sandra said, and light activity is recommended for a longer period.

Because Katherine had worked for the Mississippi Auto Auction for seven years and had been employed since she was a young teen, she qualified for Social Security Disability benefits for three years and planned to use that time to get well and get her degree.

The eleven medicines she needs for recovery are covered by Medicare and Medicaid for the same three-year period, with a total bill of close to $4,000 a month. For the first time in a long time, it looked like Katherine might have the chance for a somewhat normal life.

That's why the letter the family received from the state Medicaid office on June 5 came as such a shock. The letter told the family that due to a change in state law, which Gov. Haley Barbour recently signed into being, they would no longer be eligible for the benefits being paid for medications. The letter also indicated that no fair hearings would be granted to appeal the change in the benefits law, which eliminated the Poverty Level Aged and Disabled category of eligibility. The family was informed benefits for the prescription drugs would end on June 30.

Since then, Sandra said, she understands that benefits for the actual anti-rejection drugs may continue, but that benefits for the other drugs that Katherine requires, some $1,900 worth of medications each month, will cease at the end of the month.

"I feel it is just a death sentence for my daughter," said Sandra, who also raised Katherine as a working single mother. "Katherine was born when I was 27 yrs. old and I gave her my kidney when she was 27 yrs. old. I just want her to have the chance to live and raise her daughter. I think people are making life and death decisions without even doing the research on who these decisions are affecting. They were giving people three weeks to live."

The family received the news on a Saturday and on Monday began calling to find out what could be done, starting with their case worker, who informed them there was nothing they could do because it was state law. They worked their way up to the governor's office, where Sandra said she was told that a special session had been considered to discuss the law, but had been rejected by Barbour.

At the state Medicaid office, Sandra said she was told that 72 percent of the people elected the governor, when she protested the law to the office there.

"Everywhere there was the run around with someone passing the blame on to someone else," she said. "At the U.S. legislator's offices I was told that they couldn't interfere with state law."

Finally, she was told by Barbour's office that the governor was trying to get waivers for transplant recipients. "Waivers from who," Sandra said. "We can't sit around wondering if this will happen."

The stress of situation has taken a negative toll on both her and Katherine's health, Sandra said.

"At a time when she just needs to be recovering, she is worrying and that is bad for the blood pressure and that can damage the new kidney," said Sandra. "But we are not giving up and want every one to know how this law is affecting people, not just us. This is affecting a lot of people - 65,000 people in Mississippi." Katherine and Sandra are now working on a way to get on a program sponsored by the drug companies themselves, but that requires monthly applications and the uncertainty of not knowing whether the programs will fund for that month or if they will continue at all. The two say they don't mind the paper work, just the uncertainty. Meanwhile, Katherine is trying to look on the bright side and enjoy feeling "so much better than I have felt for a long time." She wants to get back to work and to school as soon as possible, to be productive. Both she and Sandra feel guilty for having to ask for help at all, they say.

Views -- 14 boats

There is supposed to be a one-half mile offshore limit, but this morning the law seems to be more broken than complied with."

This was written five years ago. The 2004 shrimp season opened 9 June and when I went out on my porch at 7 am on that day, I counted fourteen shrimp boats. Fourteen! And most of these were in Louisiana waters to my west. When I counted them at noon there were a few more with these in Mississippi waters and trawling close to shore. At dusk there were a about the same number, never exceeding twenty boats actually present within my view. At eleven that night, just before going to bed, I counted the lights of thirty.

I believe that we may well be witnessing the passing of a way of life. A way that we considered uniquely ours here on the Mississippi Sound.

It is true that if true, it will be an economic as well as a culinary loss; Stella can attest to last in the joy of eating fresh shrimp over frozen shrimp.

But there will be a less tangible loss. A loss akin to our spiritual loss during those bleak years when we had no pelicans on the coast or the present absence of large flights of migrating ducks. It will be a loss of a visual aspect that is presently an everyday facet of our lives.

Five years ago, I also wrote:

"Shrimp boats with their spider web riggings and jutting booms are a pleasure to see. They are to us, a ubiquitous ever-changing part of the Sound itself. At one time they present a distant dash of lines of one, or a group of boats, on the horizon. Or we see a nest of two, bow to stern, in front of us, sleeping, waiting for a night of work. Or a single boat moving slow, snail-like, with the dim throb of its diesels marking its painstakingly slow passage."

"There is always a boat working out there. Although they are painted different colors, the weathered paint changes them all to appear as being white and gray and perhaps a muted blue."

"They fit in the scene of the waters of the Sound as naturally as clumps of trees in an open field, as if they are the normal growths in the landscape. What is most wonderful is that these "trees" move about, presenting to our view an ever changing landscape."

"In front of a storm cloud, they gleam with an intensity of sharp lines, in the soft mist of a morning fog their lines are softer, almost delicately drawn on the gray backdrop of light. But a joy in the late afternoon, is when the sun with less than an hour left above the horizon, catches a boat turning broadside and presents it to us as a bright flash of white."

Think about it. Will we in our time see all this disappear?

Garden -- petunias

coupled with outstanding bloom.

Other great new petunias introduced in the last decade include Surfinia and Supertunia. Finally to hit the Mississippi market this season is the Pink Giant Supertunia. I don't know how many are still at garden centers, but I can tell you that at the California Pack Trials, it absolutely mesmerized everyone with its huge flower and leaf structure. This is definitely the largest petunia flower on the market.

Keep your eyes open for the Kahuna series of petunias. I don't know the history of the name, but I suspect it must have something to do with the old beach movies and the Big Kahuna. Its name fits with Waves and Surfinia, don't you think? Its superior performance also matches the other petunias.

As good as these new petunias are, soil preparation is still the key to your happiness with these plants. Look at commercial landscapes and you'll quickly note these petunias are not being planted in tight, heavy clay. In fact, they are more likely to be planted in raised beds where a planting mix was used.

Once you have planted your petunias, apply a good layer of mulch to keep those summer soil temperatures moderate and prevent rapid loss of moisture due to evaporation. Feed with light, frequent applications of a slow-released fertilizer about every month.

Plant them in bold drifts with a sufficient quantity to make a landscape impact. Combine them with other tough plants like lantanas, verbena and salvias. Use them in containers and let them gently cascade over the rims.

Today's petunias are a far cry from the ones 20 years ago and will certainly offer you a more attractive home for months. Plant some and you'll pull in that driveway from a hard day's work with a smile on your face.

Belsom graduates Louisiana Tech

Summer Reading Program at Pass Public Library

The Pass Christian Public Library announces its 2004 Summer Reading Program. This year's theme is "Step To The Beat-Read!". Registration for the program continues through June 18, 2004. When children read books and record them on their reading records, they become eligible for prize drawings held at the reading program special events.

On Wednesday, June 16, 2004, Jennifer Buchanan from the Bureau of Marine Resources will visit the Pass Christian Library. There will be two special programs at the Pass Christian Library. The first program will begin at 10:30 a.m., at the Library. This program will be focused on children 8 and under. Miss Jennifer will talk to the children about our marine resources and bring some "friends" for the children to observe and touch.

On the same afternoon at 1:00 p.m., Miss Jennifer will walk with the children to the miniature wetland just west of the Pass Christian Small Craft Harbor. All children are welcome! We will meet at the Library first before we begin our trek to the beach. We do request that children 8 and under be accompanied by an adult. At the beach, Miss Jennifer will discuss marine resources and help us observe the wetlands. Everyone is encouraged to bring a bucket or scoop net. This promises to be a fun and educational experience for children of all ages.

"Step to the Beat" and come to the Pass Christian Library on Wednesday, June 16th for the special program. Come and join us as we march to the beach! For further information, please call 452-4596.

For more information about making a brick donation to Haley's Garden, please contact East Hancock Elementary School located at 4221 Kiln-Delisle Road in Kiln, Mississippi or contacting the school office at 255-6637.

VIRTUOUS WOMAN
THROUGHOUT THE AGES A VIRTUOUS WOMAN HAD BEEN REVERED AND ESTEEMED BY ALL NATIONS AND THE BIBLICAL PEOPLE TENDED TO PUT HER IN A POSITION OF HIGH HONOR. ALL ONE HAS TO DO IS TURN TO THE BOOK OF PROVERBS TO FIND THE POETIC DISSERTATION ON THE QUALITIES OF A VIRTUOUS WOMAN. "OPEN THY MOUTH, JUDGE RIGHTEOUSLY..." SAYS THE BOOK OF PROVERBS. "WHO CAN FIND A VIRTUOUS WOMAN? FOR HER PRICE IS FAR ABOVE RUBIES." ACCORDING TO THE SAME CHAPTER OF PROVERBS, "THE HEART OF HER HUSBAND DOTHS SAFELY TRUST IN HER..." AND ACCORDING TO THIS VENERABLE BOOK, "SHE WILL DO HIM GOOD AND NOT EVIL ALL THE DAYS OF HER LIFE." THE BIBLE'S PORTRAYAL OF ITS VIRTUOUS WOMAN GOES ON, "SHE STRETCHETH OUT HER HAND TO THE POOR, YEA, SHE REACHETH FORTH HER HANDS TO THE NEEDY, SHE OPENETH HER MOUTH WITH WISDOM, AND IN HER TONGUE IS THE LAW OF KINDNESS." THIS IS BUT A SMALL SEGMENT OF CHAPTER THIRTY ONE OF THE BOOK OF PROVERBS BUT ONE CAN SEE THAT THE BIBLICAL OPINION IS A STRONG ONE IN PRAISE OF A MORALLY CORRECT AND UPRIGHT WOMAN, AND TO GIVE THE BOOK OF PROVERBS THE LAST SAY, "GIVE HER THE FRUIT OF HER HANDS, AND LET HER OWN WORKS PRAISE HER IN THE GATES!"

Wish others what you are and have

In the midst of a recent funeral Mass celebration, I caught myself stealing furtive glances at a middle-aged in-law of the bereaved family. Suddenly, I became aware that the Jesus Leap Syndrome had hit me broadside again after an absence of some months.

As we prayed, sang and celebrated my friend's homegoing, the reflection/prayer kept bouncing around my mind: "Yes, I wish him the same I am, the same things I have and all I hope to be. I wish him the best God can offer here on earth and in the life to come."

Soon, the same reflection/prayer became infectious in my mind as I studied one bereaved family member after another, quickly finding a fresh application to all those family members gathered there. Yes, the Jesus Leap Syndrome was fully operational.

Engulfed by myriad distractions of every kind, by our human temptations to envy, to jealousy, to selfishness and to everything earthly, we are not inclined to think generously toward others, to speak glowingly of others, or to wish them the very best there is.

To the contrary, our strongest leanings are almost always toward selfishness and the envy, jealousy and attachment to material things which are born of selfishness. If not a natural gangster lean, we certainly have a venal, mercenary lean in most of our doings.

What do you prize most about yourself? What do you think is so special about you that you do not want anyone to invade the inner-sanctum sanctuary of your personality and your character? Do you consider yourself a one-of-a-kind, threw-the-mold-away creation fashioned by God? If so, of course, you do not want to be anyone but yourself.

Apparently, that is true of most people who tend to be stuck on themselves despite weighty evidence that they should be eager to slough the countless imperfections, defects and downright morally reprehensible things which have laid siege to their character.

Of course, there are those select human beings, mostly stars and superstars in their respective professions, exalted and idolized to the point of fame and celebrity, whose places most people would feel flattered, privileged and most fortunate in taking. And oh how multitudes of people wish they could avail themselves of that.

On the other hand, name some underprivileged or sorely afflicted or troubled people whose place you would not mind taking in life. Are there any in your life? Is there even one unfortunate wretch with whom you would willingly trade places and be at peace?

"Useless, pointless, mindless speculation!" you may be inclined to say. "Mere mental gymnastics, and a foolish exercise in futility!" However, before you conclude to useless speculation, you need to consider a few things of note.

Now we know that it is metaphysically impossible to exchange our whole life with that of some social and/or moral reject. But, if it were possible, how would you feel about changing places with a derelict, an addict, an AIDS victim or a terminally ill person?

Would your rejection of this idea be on account of the shame and loss of reputation involved? Or would it be the unspeakable inconvenience, the outright humiliation, the physical and mental sufferings, or the horror of despair about the future?

So what is this big deal about Jesus' taking some kind of leap into our lives, so that the ultimate thing we can accomplish in life is to follow his lead of taking on the problems, the pains, the burdens and even the gross defects and repulsive habits of others? Some call it solidarity and identity of lifestyle with the poor, the unfortunate, the downtrodden.

"Christ Jesus, who, though he was in the form of God, did not regard equality with God something to be clung to. Rather, he emptied himself, taking the form of a slave, coming in human likeness; and found human in appearance, he humbled himself, becoming obedient to death, even death on a cross."

(Philippians 2:5-8)

The only person in the universe who did not have that to do, gave it all up, eschewing the singular status of being equal to God, taking upon himself the nature and all the accompanying problems, burdens, pains, deprivations and humiliations of a slave.

This was the great leap of love executed by the Son of the only One in the universe who has power, glory, honor and absolute independence. The Jesus Leap Syndrome is exactly opposed to our selfish, exclusive penchant which excludes all undesirables.

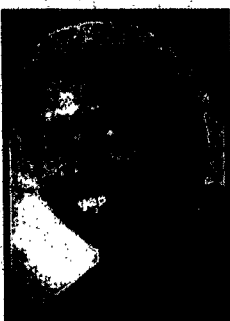

For starters, even apart from the above-mentioned street people, AIDS patients and the terminally ill, do you think for a minute that you would want to so identify with people deeply afflicted with family problems, emotional problems and severe mental problems that you would willingly trade places in order to save them from their ordeals?

The Christ did exactly that through his passion and death, and, contrary to all human expectations, if we emulate Christ in doing all we can for our enemies, it will be well with our souls, and we will achieve the highest degree of contentment possible here.

In Romans 5:8, Paul reminds us of ultimate identity shown in the passion of the Christ: "God proves his love for us in that while we were still sinners Christ died for us." Can you imagine how well we would treat our friends if we so loved our enemies?

Reflections on Life

by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Everyone needs Christ's Salvation

Believing that Christ died - that's history, believing that Christ died for mankind - that's theology; believing that Christ died for you that's salvation!

And it's salvation that everyone needs. Studying Christianity won't make you a Christian; understanding theology won't necessarily change your life; but believing will, if you place your faith in Christ as your personal Savior.

Faith means accepting salvation from Christ as a gift. You can't work for a gift, it can't be earned. You simply accept it. Faith means coming to Christ as a sinner and receiving His forgiveness.

It means coming to Christ as a pauper and trusting Him as your benefactor.

If you were drowning, you would not ignore a life vest thrown to you, you would trust it. That is how you must trust the Savior. Don't look inside yourself for redeeming qualities. You have nothing to merit God's approval except a sense of need and a cry for mercy. Don't think you can get into Heaven by good deeds, neither will baptism or confirmation save you. Joining a church will not give you new birth.

But if you ask the Lord Jesus Christ to save you, He will do it; for the Bible says: "Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." (Romans 10: 13) "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." (Acts 16:31) "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him shall not perish, but have everlasting life." (John 3:16)

The Mind of the Spirit

Many people involved in the New Age movement believe they are gods!

They do not believe in a personal God! But they believe they can tap into some impersonal and ultimate "force" like Luke Skywalker and become gods themselves.

To put it another way, they believe they are ascending the scale of evolution toward divinity and will become gods. As a result, they believe they can have the mind of God or the mind of the Spirit as the Bible puts it!

So they make efforts to, contact spirit guides through those who are mediums or by learning the techniques of channeling themselves!

All of these individuals neglect a profound teaching of the Bible! It is the teaching that human beings are creatures of the God! The Bible says He is "the Lord our maker" (Psalm 95:6).

"It is He who has made us, and not we ourselves" (Psalm 100:3). But when this truth is neglected, people actually think they can tap into the ultimate source of knowledge and be like God! But again, the Bible says, "Such knowledge is too wonderful for me, it is too high, I cannot attain to it" (Psalm 139:6).

On the other hand, the Bible does speak about "The mind set on the Spirit" (Romans 8:6). Literally the text means "the mind of the Spirit."

But the word "mind" refers to the attitude toward life which a person has. The apostle Paul uses the same word when he exhorts, "Have this attitude in yourselves which was also in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 2:5). Having the "mind of the Spirit" does not refer to being elevated to a status of a god!

Rather, "the mind of the Spirit" is an attitude about life guided by the Spirit of the personal God of the Bible. The wonderful promise is, "The mind set on the Spirit is life and peace" (Romans 8:6).

Advertising is an investment in the success of your business. Every business has some kind of competition, either within the town, nearby city or from mail order firms. Your potential customers are being courted by your competitors. If you do not invite those customers to do business with you, they are likely to forget you and buy elsewhere. It is not uncommon for consumers to switch their trading from one store to another. Advertising helps to keep old customers and equally as important, make new ones.

Our community is constantly growing which means that potential customers are moving into the market area all the time. Advertising gives these newcomers a reason to visit your store.

Most businesses budget for their advertising expenses just as they do for other necessities such as rent, phones, etc. Smart business people realize that advertising is imperative to keep their business growing.

Another reason to advertise is that advertising is news! You profit by telling our readers what is new in your store. Through advertising, you can let a wide audience know the product lines you carry, the quality of your merchandise, the completeness of your service and the character of your store.

If you have something to sell, then you have something to advertise. When you have nothing to advertise, you are out of business. Advertising is designed to build your business and works best when it is repeated regularly. Consistent advertising pays off!

Now that you know some of the reasons to advertise, you're probably wondering how you can advertise most effectively. Surveys show that ads in local newspapers have more impact than in any other medium. The Sea Coast Echo goes into the majority of the homes in Hancock County. The Sea Coast Echo is full of interesting reading, it is a part of our community. People like to read about people and The Sea Coast Echo is full of pictures and stories about local people. The most important reason to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo is that our readers are your customers.

If you're looking for the best advertising value for your money, then you should contact the advertising department at The Sea Coast Echo. One of our advertising representatives will be happy to discuss the many advertising options offered by The Sea Coast Echo. For more information you may call 467-5474, Monday through Friday 8am to 5pm, or stop by our office at 124 Court Street, Bay St. Louis.

Two major exhibits opening at the Ohr-O'Keefe Museum of Art in June

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Ohr-O'Keefe Museum of Art in Biloxi unveils two major exhibitions on June 18. "Feast Your Eyes: The Unexpected Beauty of Vegetable Gardens" is the first traveling Smithsonian exhibit to visit the museum, which is an affiliate of the Washington, D.C., institution. "The Centennial Exhibition: On the Midway—George Ohr's Journey into a New Century" is a celebration of the final major award ever received by the Mad Potter of Biloxi.

"Feast Your Eyes" opens in the Lila Wallace Gallery, and "On the Midway" opens in the Ohr Gallery. The reception on opening night will include:

- An art talk at 5:30 pm by Synthia King, master gardener and an active volunteer at the Vegetable Garden of the museum's Pleasant Reed House;

- A "Salad Sampler" prepared by museum staff for visitors using greens from the garden and other fresh ingredients;

- Docent tours of "On the Midway";

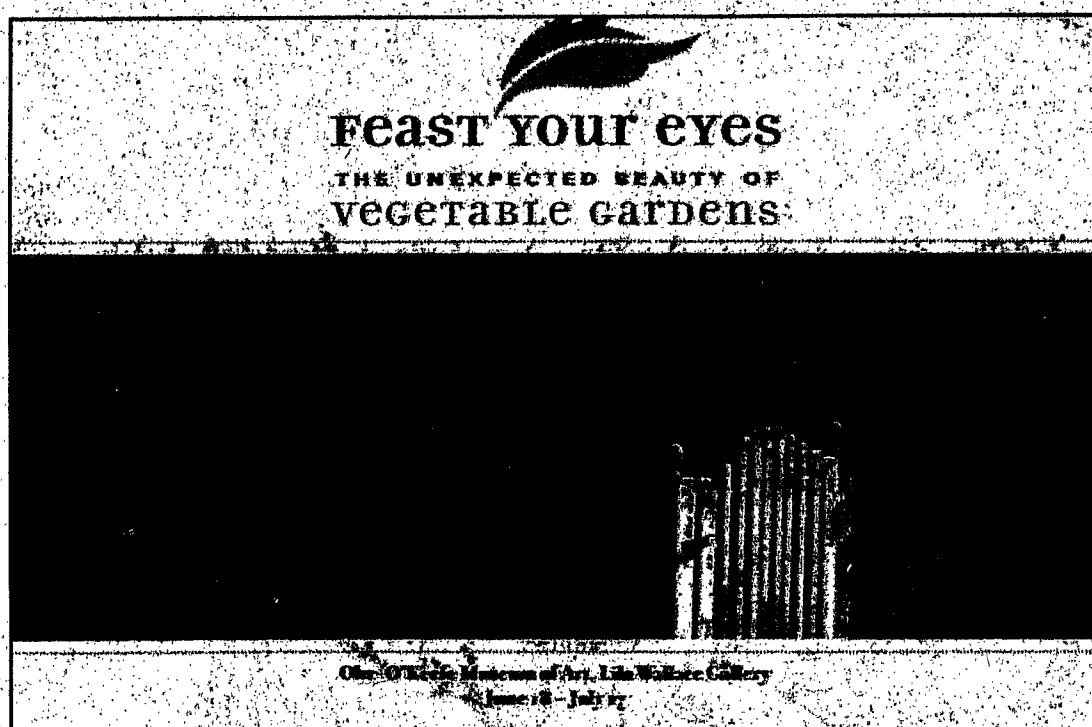

- Sale of a new commemorative centennial poster for On the Midway, which can be embossed with Ohr's trademark signature; and

- New pewter 'veggie' jewelry, magnets and pushpins available in the gift shop.

In one of those "twists" so like Ohr in style and energy, it was the potter himself who twice (once successfully) sent his pottery to the Smithsonian for display. After the 1904 exposition, the Smithsonian accepted a small collection of Ohr's through the efforts of the U.S. Pottery Association.

More Ohr works were later donated by James Carpenter, who rediscovered the potter after Hurricane Camille. Now several major Ohr pots are on permanent display on the ground floor of the American History Museum of the Smithsonian on the National Mall. A portrait of Ohr is also in the archives of the National Portrait Gallery; a copy of that portrait will be on display at "On the Midway".

Feast Your Eyes: The

Unexpected Beauty of Vegetable Gardens. Bill Nelson, Senior Curator says, "Throughout history, artists have painted vegetables, writers have waxed poetic about them, and millions of Americans have taken intense pleasure in tending their plants from seed to maturity.

However, while growing vegetables for food has a long history in America, vegetables have not always been considered pretty. But this exhibit is truly a feast for the eyes."

Dina O'Sullivan, Art Educator, has planned an art activity for 3rd Saturday Family Day - June 19 - that includes making vegetables out of clay and using them as decorations for pots they will make.

Dora Faison, Curator of the Pleasant Reed House, reports the Reed Garden is full of ripe peppers, tomatoes, beets and more. She says "The Reed Garden is important to the history and legacy of the House because it's an example of the kind of kitchen garden that Pleasant and his wife Georgia had to have to help feed their family of two girls and three boys.

Also, the Smithsonian book of "Feast Your Eyes", 142 pp with many color plates, is available for sale in the gift shop through the run of the exhibit, until July 17.

Coordinated tours of the Feast exhibit and of the Reed House and its Vegetable Garden are available by contacting Dina O'Sullivan, Art Educator, 228.374.5547, ext. 26, dina@georgeohr.org.

Feast Your Eyes: The Unexpected Beauty of Vegetable Gardens" was developed by the Smithsonian Institution Horticulture Services Division in collaboration with the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service (SITES).

The Centennial Exhibition: On the Midway—George Ohr's Journey into a New Century: This major new exhibit of the pottery of Ohr celebrates his award of a Silver Medal at the 1904 Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis, one of many World's Fairs popular in the late 1800s and early 1900s, with many attended by the master potter.

A number of pots never before seen in public will be on exhibit during "On the Midway", including his wide variety of "novelty" items sold for less than a dollar at the Fairs. Novelty items include the legendary "puzzle mug", a puzzle jug, a trick cadogan teapot (inverted pitcher), "Stanhope" jugs with a photograph of a female legend of the 19th century, and Lincoln log house inkwells, to name just a few.

The central theme of "On the Midway" is how Biloxi-born Ohr traveled through sixteen states and visited many World's Fairs as he grew into a world-class ceramic artist at the brink of the international modern art movement. His travels took him into contact with folk potters in the mountains and exposed him as well to the major international art movements of the 1800s and 1900s.

Self-taught, self-possessed, and exorbitantly ambitious, Ohr absorbed his experiences and translated them into the extravagant shapes and colors of the creative ceramics that marked the last half of his career.

Featured in the exhibition are the Silver Medal Ohr received in St. Louis as well as souvenir items from that Fair, which was the first World's Fair open to the masses and introduced such American standards as the waffle cone, the hamburger-on-bun, and Dr Pepper. Also on display for "On the Midway" is an item on loan from local Ohr collectors: a bisque pot marked "Expo Clay 1904". Other pottery featured in the exhibit are many works from the original collection of the late Lola Marion of Biloxi, now in the museum collection, and from those locally who have been collecting for many years as well as just recently.

Curating "On the Midway" are Barbara Ross, Registrar of Collections, and Anna Stanfield, Assistant Curator.

For further information on both exhibits, visit www.georgeohr.org.

Andy Richter

Checking in with Andy Richter

By John Crook
© Zap2it

Andy Richter clearly doesn't put much stock in that old adage warning actors never to work with children.

Conan O'Brien's former sidekick stars as Bob Chase, a harried father of five, in "Quintuplets," a new Fox sitcom premiering Wednesday, June 16.

Although Bob and wife Carol (Rebecca Creskoff, "Greetings From Tucson") doted on their brood during the magazine cover-friendly toddler years, "Quintuplets" catches up with Bob and Carol several years later, the kids having blossomed into five very diverse but equally headstrong teenagers.

"With one kid, you can deceive yourself that it's a kind of artistic endeavor, molding this young life," Richter says. "With that many kids, it all comes down to logistics: who's dressed, who's not dressed, who has eaten and who hasn't. Your life becomes one big check list."

That's literally true on this sitcom set, which includes a giant poster board grid where Carol struggles to coordinate the whereabouts of her large family. Creskoff captures this loving but frazzled mom with shrewd comic insight, and her relaxed chemistry with Richter is one of the new show's strongest assets.

Richter says he found "Quintuplets" while reading through several pilot scripts after NBC passed on a series he had written with a partner.

"This show seems very (promotable), first because it's funny, and it's also right up the alley of what network executives seem to want right now: family shows that are 'edgy.'"

Edgier than "Yes, Dear," perhaps, but "Quintuplets" is definitely more solidly routine than Richter's previous and inspired "Andy Richter Controls the Universe."

Born: Oct. 28, 1966, in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Family ties: Second of four children; father teaches Russian at Indiana University, mother designs kitchen cabinets.

Marital status: Married to actress Sarah Thyre since 1994; one son.

Not just a pretty face: In 1999, Richter set a record on "Celebrity Jeopardy," earning $29,400.

It's a living: Richter once played a victim of serial killer John Wayne Gacy in a "Hard Copy" segment.

TV series credits: "Late Night with Conan O'Brien," "Andy Richter Controls the Universe."

Film credits: Include "Elf," "New York Minute," "My Boss's Daughter," "Scary Movie 2," "Dr. Doolittle 2" and many others.

Featured Fox hopes for ratings black-jack with 'The Casino'

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

Take the business drama of "The Restaurant" or "The Apprentice," mix in the glitz and glamour of Las Vegas, and you have "The Casino," which Fox hopes will be its next reality hit (even without snarky British judges or plastic surgery).

Starting Monday, June 14, reality-television titan Mark Burnett (the man behind the above shows, and, of course, "Survivor") and his team - co-executive producers Jamie Bruce and Conrad Riggs, and supervising producer Kevin Harris - throw open the doors of the Golden Nugget Hotel and Casino in downtown Las Vegas, right next to the Fremont Street Experience, to show what happens when a couple of Internet millionaires decide to gamble it all in Sin City.

For 13 episodes, "The Casino" follows Tim Poster and Tom Breilling, who founded Travelscape.com - then sold it to Expedia, pocketing millions - as they take over the Nugget, along with a sister property in Laughlin, Nev. Their dream is to reproduce the classic Vegas experience.

"It's almost an oasis in the middle of downtown," Bruce says of the Golden Nugget. "It's a very upscale hotel, but it's a gaming hall more than a casino. It doesn't have the shopping mall, it's a real gambling haven. Tim and Tom are upgrading it. They want to be the force behind invigorating downtown."

Open 24/7, with about 3,000 employees, the Nugget is a world unto itself, but unlike "The Restaurant," the employees and owners don't provide all the drama.

"The drama is in the guests," Bruce says, "and in the casino. Some people, on television, have lost a couple hundred thousand of their own money."

"At the beginning of the show, I was very worried. I was saying, 'I hope the guests are going to come and be into it.'"

Relationships in flux as 'Six Feet Under' starts new season

By John Crook
© Zap2it

Lives and relationships are wildly in flux at Fisher & Diaz Funeral Home as HBO's "Six Feet Under" begins its fourth season Sunday, June 13.

That's especially true in the case of three marriages. Newlyweds Ruth and George (Golden Globe winner Frances Conroy, James Cromwell) are just starting their lives together, but their happiness is curtailed by the tragic end of Nate's (Peter Krause) union with Lisa (Lili Taylor), whose drowned body was pulled from the California ocean at the end of last season.

"The surgery (at the end of season two) took care of Nate's health crisis," series creator and executive producer Alan Ball explains, "but he certainly has a lot of other stuff to deal with this season, which is sort of about moving on and experimenting with new 'models' for one's life. Nate knows now that Lisa is dead, so he has to embrace his new existence as a single father."

"Nate is confronting grief on a level that he never has experienced before. Certainly he grieved for his father, but now it's his life partner. And there's some guilt mixed in with it, because he had so much ambivalence about his relationship with Lisa. He has another dead person in his psyche to contend with, now."

"All the characters are branching out, and there's a lot of new stuff happening. There aren't a lot of old dynamics this season. Characters are continuing to grow and change and take risks."

Among those taking the most foolish risks is business partner and restoration technician Federico "Rico" Diaz (Freddie Rodriguez), a character who frequently gets shunted to the sidelines. Not so this season, Ball says.

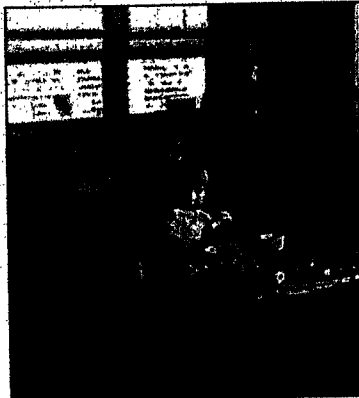

"Rico has a big story line, and he's not such a good boy this year," he chuckles, referring to the season-opening story line in which Rico becomes increasingly fascinated with a sexy stripper, throwing his already-fragile marriage to Vanessa (Justina Machado) into crisis.

As for Ruth and George, Ball notes, "Even though they are not first-time newlyweds, this is their first year of marriage, where a lot of stuff has to be worked out and where two very strong personalities can really push one another's buttons. And don't forget, now there's a new father figure in the Fisher household."

Some of the characters enjoy a potentially sunnier outlook, however. After enduring harrowing psychological traumas during the first two seasons of the show, Brenda (Golden Globe winner Rachel Griffiths) has laid many of her old demons to rest and is now cautiously ready to explore a new romance with Joe (Justin Theroux), a sensitive neighbor she met near the end of last season.

"I didn't really have an intense relationship with anyone last season, and this season I go on this interesting little journey with Justin Theroux, and filming those scenes, where Brenda is exploring a relationship with another guy, just felt weird. I felt as if I were cheating on Peter!" Griffiths says, referring to her character's tumultuous relationship with Nate that dominated the show's first two seasons.

"The strange thing for me with TV is that, unlike film where you go through a crisis then catharsis then relief, here you barely catch your breath after one obstacle before you're hit with another! By season two, they were really pushing the characters of Nate and Brenda, challenging the audience into going to some dark places, and I think it got to the point where Brenda just needed to 'float' for a little while," Griffiths adds.

Lauren Ambrose, Peter Krause, Bronwyn Anne Tosh/Brenna Lee Tosh, Frances Conroy and James Cromwell (not pictured) star in "Six Feet Under," which starts a new season Sunday on HBO.

Brenda's newer, mellowed mode also makes it easier for Griffiths to slip back into this character's skin. The actress, who gave birth to her first child just last November, is feeling pretty peaceful herself these days.

"I'm really thankful for the fact that these characters are evolving just as we (actors) are," she says. "I mean, if I were coming back to Brenda as she was in season one, I would really have to work hard to find that person. Where she is now is closer to where I am personally, having a new kind of peace in her life. I often say that I feel what Brenda feels; I just have acted upon those emotions very differently."

"Sometimes it has been a challenge for me to understand why Brenda acted out so extremely in a given situation, but I don't like to judge the characters I play."

Frasier recited from Tennyson's 'Ulysses'

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Q In the "Frasier" series finale, Kelsey Grammer quoted lines from a poem by Lord Alfred Tennyson. Could you please provide the title? -Marti in Atlanta.

A Grammer (as Frasier) recited from the last nine lines of "Ulysses," ending with this passage: "Though much is taken, much abides; and though we are not now that strength which in old days moved earth and heaven, that which we are, we are - our equal temper of heroic hearts, made weak by time and fate, but strong in will to strive, to seek, to find and not to yield."

Q Will "Wild Card" return to Lifetime for a second season? It would be helpful if you ran a list of all canceled shows as well as return dates for those only temporarily off the air. -Valerie Burton via e-mail.

A First, Joely Fisher's "Wild Card" is expected back later this summer (date TBA) with some cast changes: Loretta Devine, who won a release from "Boston Public" while Fox held that show in limbo, has joined the cast as Pearl McGuire, Zoe and Dan's (Fisher, Chris Potter) new boss. Rae Dawn Chong (Sophie) and Bronson Pickett (Marcos) will not be returning.

Your other request sounds perfectly reasonable, but actually, it's almost impossible. Network programmers want to keep their options wide open during the course of a season, so they rarely confirm which shows are actually dead in the water. "Boston Public," "Miss Match," "Hack" - these shows and more were confirmed as canceled only when the networks announced their new season lineups in May.

Paris Hilton tries to keep her life 'Simple' again on Fox

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

If you're Paris Hilton or Nicole Richie, life on the road isn't likely to be any simpler the second time around.

After their experiences last year as temporary members of a family in rural Arkansas, the socialite friends drive coast-to-coast in an Airstream trailer - made even more cramped by the cameras and microphones monitoring their every move - as the unscripted series "The Simple Life 2: Road Trip" premieres Wednesday, June 16, on Fox.

The glamour-sensitive young women leave their credit cards and cell phones behind again, and bring their dogs Tinkerbell and Honey along, as they set out from Miami Beach, Fla., en route back to Beverly Hills, Calif. They sample the local color of many of the places they pass through ... and dive into activities that range from making sausages to catching crawfish.

"It was fun to see all of America, especially with my best friend," Hilton says from the Australia movie set where she's acting in a "House of Wax" remake. She was particularly game for "The Simple Life 2" not only because it took her out of the paparazzi's range again, but also because of her acquaintances' reactions to the original show. "They thought it was one of the funniest things they'd ever seen. They can't believe I actually did it. They all loved it; I never heard a bad word about it."

Some regions of the United States made more of an impression on Hilton than others. "I loved Louisiana. We stayed with a family on a swamp; it was, like, all muddy, but the people were so nice. I like Mississippi, too; they had a casino, and we went there. I also loved Texas. We just met so many neat people along the way, it was a totally cool experience."

Which isn't to say the ladies' assigned mode of transportation wasn't problematic. "It was so difficult to drive the trailer," Hilton says. "It was really hard. Especially making big turns or backing up, I always wanted someone to help me ... but we couldn't let the crew help us, so I'd have to ask some random person. On the freeway, when it was windy, the trailer would rock back-and-forth. Nicole and I shared the same bed, and clothes were thrown everywhere. It was just a total mess, because it was so small."

Add in the duo's dogs, and it seemed even smaller. "Tinkerbell hated Honey at first," Hilton recalls. "They kept fighting, but then they got along. Tinkerbell is used to being the only one; she's so spoiled. She's also small, and Honey is much bigger than she is." With such circumstances, Hilton reiterates how glad she was to have Richie (who replaced Hilton's sister, Nicky, on the first "Simple Life") by her side again. "I couldn't have done it otherwise."

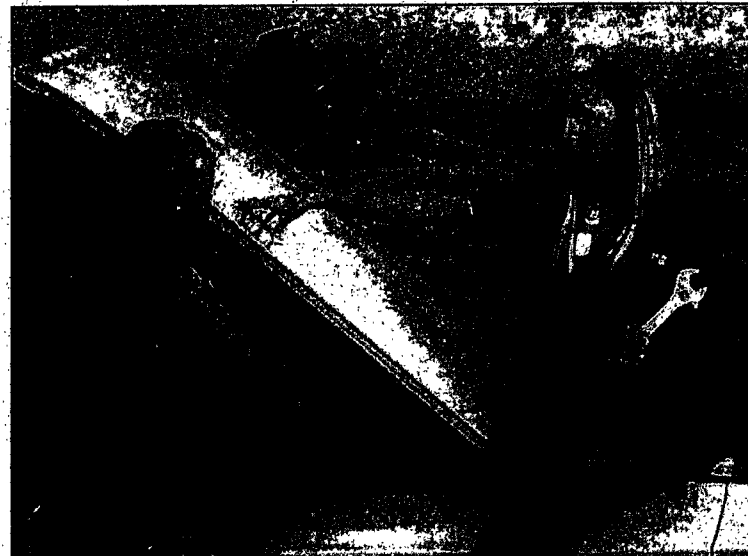

While the Ledings of Altus, Ark., hosted her and Richie the first time, Hilton admits she hasn't kept in touch with the family. "I'm so busy," she explains. "I've talked to the mother and the grandmother and the son, Braxton, but not on a regular basis." Hilton appreciated the reunion special Fox staged after she and Richie had left town. "It was fun to go back to the town and see everyone. That was a couple of months after we'd shot the show, and I enjoyed it."

Hilton no longer shops at Wal-Mart, either. The department-store chain got lots of mentions off Hilton's "Simple Life" statement that she thought it was a business that sold walls, but she explains, "There aren't any Wal-Marts where I live. When we were in Arkansas last year, that was the only store around. I loved it, and I went there every day back then, but I don't go there on a usual basis."

"The Simple Life 2" was one of the last projects initiated by the late reality-show pioneer Mary-Ellis Bunim ("The Real World," "Road Rules"), whose production partner Jonathan Murray oversaw Hilton and Richie's latest TV exploits. Bunim died "right before we left" to make the new show, Hilton reports. "It was really sad, really hard. She was a great woman."

Hilton is due to issue a book and a clothing line before year's end. Meanwhile, her interest in acting is evident from her recent guest shots on the Fox series "The O.C." and the NBC series "Las Vegas," her role in the new Kate Hudson movie "Raising Helen," and her work on the "House of Wax" update slated for release this Halloween. She says making the horror movie has been "awesome. We have a great cast, and with Joel Silver ('Die Hard,' 'Lethal Weapon') producing, it's going to be amazing. Some people are turned into wax figures ... but I'm just brutally murdered." Her co-stars include TV regulars Elisha Cuthbert ("24"), Chad Michael Murray ("One Tree Hill") and Jared Padalecki ("Gilmore Girls").

Socialites Paris Hilton (left) and Nicole Richie hit the road again for new experiences in various locales across the country as the unscripted series "The Simple Life 2: Road Trip" premieres Wednesday on Fox.

With the success of "The Simple Life," it was inevitable someone would try an other-way-around show. In fact, Hilton's mother, Kathy, is preparing to educate some not-as-privileged people in the good life for an upcoming NBC series.

For her own part, Paris isn't sure whether she's had enough of "The Simple Life," should Fox come calling for a third edition. "I'm just waiting for 'The Simple Life 2' to come out," she says. "I haven't really decided yet. I'm just excited about my career. I had a lot of fun when I was younger, and now that I'm working, it's even more fun."

'North Shore' splashes onto TV with love lost and found

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

Perhaps Oahu can do for "North Shore" what Orange County did for "The O.C." last summer - have gorgeous young things propel their pathos into a major hit for Fox.

Premiering Monday, June 14, the one-hour drama is "Gosford Park" for "The O.C." set," says executive producer Chris Brancato. "What we are really doing is focusing on a luxury hotel in Hawaii where people from the mainland come to escape their problems. Oftentimes, the downstairs contingent of the hotel gets involved with the problems and helps solve them."

The downstairs contingent, the workers at The Grand Waimea, are general manager Jason (Kristoffer Polaha, "Tru Calling"), guest-relations director Nicole (Brooke Burns, "Baywatch"), waitress MJ (Nikki DeLoach, "Longshot") and lifeguard Gabriel (Corey Sevier, "Black Sash").

Vincent (James Remar) owns the hotel. "I'm the grown-up," Remar says. "You stay in this business long enough and you get to be the grown-up instead of the rebel without a cause."

In the pilot (a tape was not available at press time but the script was), Vincent explains how his father bought the land in 1948 for $18,000. Twenty years later, the dad wanted to cash in for $300,000 and Vincent begged him not to. Vincent took it from a cheap tourist trap to a world-class hotel and recently was offered $200 million for the property. He refuses to sell.

The twist here is that the man offering the major bucks is Nicole's father, a hotelier, whom Burns describes as "Trump-esque."

"She doesn't want to be under his thumb," Burns says of her character's decision to launch her career in Hawaii, far from Dad. "She wants to learn the hotel business in her own way without being the owner's kid."

Nicole and Jason have a steamy past, and it's clear from the start that it was an ugly breakup from which neither has fully recovered. Nicole has a new fiance, but she still loves Jason.

"He is very mellow but very ambitious," Polaha says of Jason, who was raised on the island by a father who was a world champion surfer and who makes surfboards.

Polaha is learning to surf for this show. "It is strenuous," he says. "Your neck is lifted up and you're paddling out. It's a blast."

With a hotel as the focal point, the show is perfect for guest appearances. Justin Guarini, runner-up from "American Idol," has a cameo in the pilot. Brancato says he is mulling over "celebrations" guests, those who are famous for being famous, such as reality show contestants. Trista and Ryan from "The Bachelor" will be on. Brancato nixed an appearance by Omerosa of "The Apprentice," although he wants Donald Trump in a guest role.

"North Shore" plans on taking advantage of Hawaii, including the surf culture of Oahu, the Waikiki tourist industry, Honolulu's financial district, and Buddhist temples around the island, Brancato says. Working on stages built for "Hawaii Five-O" and used for "Magnum, P.I." and "Baywatch," "North Shore" built a $1 million set of a lavish hotel lobby.

"It's going to be amazing television," Polaha says, boasting his first steady gig. "Everyone should watch it twice a week. Call your grandparents. We are going for the kids, the old folks home. It is going to be 'Masterpiece Theatre' meets 'American Idol.'"

Former "Baywatch" actress Brooke Burns stars as Nicole, the director of guest relations for a posh resort hotel, who also has to work with her former boyfriend for whom she still has feelings, in Fox's "North Shore," a one-hour drama premiering Monday.

Tradition, anguish await golfers at Shinnecock Hills

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

If golf is all about tradition, then Shinnecock Hills Golf Club is about as steeped in it as it gets.

The site of this year's U.S. Open (which airs Thursday through Sunday, June 17-20, on ESPN and NBC) has hosted the major championship on three other occasions dating back to 1896, the tournament's second year of existence. Located in the Eastern Long Island town of Southampton, N.Y., a longtime hotbed of golf, Shinnecock Hills was also a charter member of the U.S. Golf Association, had the first 18-hole course, was the first club to incorporate, and saw its members win the first four U.S. Women's Amateur championships.

It is also credited with spawning nearby courses at Maidstone in East Hampton, the Westhampton Country Club and the National Golf Links of America, which hosted the first Walker Cup event in 1922.

Players like the course, too, as it offers great sight lines and scenic views. Some even consider it one of the best of the U.S. Open courses.

"No question, if not THE best," says Roger Maltbie, a course reporter for NBC's coverage, "and there will be many that will use that term and will say this is THE best. And that's reserved for a few places - Pebble Beach (in Southern California), and I'm sure Pinehurst (in North Carolina) may get a pick; Bethpage (N.Y.) may get a pick; Winged Foot (N.Y.) may get some picks. But it's in that small grouping of very special golf courses."

Unlike some past U.S. Open venues - most notably the gargantuan 7,214-yard Black Course at Bethpage State Park in 2002 - Shinnecock Hills, at 6,996 yards, doesn't play especially long. "From what I understand, it's been narrowed up some," Maltbie says. "They're saying there's been many, many trees removed from the property to allow you to kind of look over the property from on high and see most of the holes and what not. But it's just a brilliant golf course. I mean, it's just as good as it gets. The players will be madly in love with it, obviously. It's like Pebble Beach - who doesn't like it? You have to search far and wide to find somebody who doesn't think it's a great golf course."

So what kind of player plays well here? "Well, we've seen Raymond Floyd and Corey Pavin win there, and certainly I would think the term 'shot-maker' would (apply to) both of those fellows. You know, very good short game, both tenacious. I think you have to be pretty sturdy mentally to get through there. The odds are there will be some wind, and it needs wind. I mean, that's part of the linksy kind of atmosphere. Being out there on the island, there's supposed to be some breeze."

"I mean, it's just so grueling because with every shot, the penalties are so severe for a miss that after a while, it just wears on you mentally," continues Maltbie, who doesn't see scores being much lower than par. "It's like having a gun to your head every time you swing the club. You know you have to hit a good one."

With defending champion Jim Furyk likely out with a wrist injury, Maltbie looks for a crop of players led by 2004 Masters champion Phil Mickelson to take control. "His play has been so solid, so good all year. You know, it wouldn't surprise me if Phil played well there. It's the kind of golf course that good ball strikers, guys who can get the ball in the fairway a lot and get on the greens a lot, are going to do well with."

"(Another) very good ball striker who's playing well is Steve Flesch, who won (the Bank of America Colonial in mid-May) - another lefty, Mike Weir - let's go for another lefty - I mean, here's another guy when his game is on top is about getting the ball in the fairway, getting the ball on the green. I mean, he's a very accurate player."

But Maltbie is less enthused about the prospects for two-time U.S. Open champ Tiger Woods, who hasn't won a major since the 2002 U.S. Open, and who, as of late May, had won but one tournament - the WGC-Accenture Match Play Championship - in 2004. "His golf swing right now just doesn't seem to be holding up for four days," Maltbie says, "and you're going to have to pretty much hold up for four days to win an Open. You don't fake out an Open. You have to be on top of your game for four straight days to win one of those things, and he doesn't seem to be there right now."

"NASCAR Racing" Sunday, June 13 (Fox, 1 p.m. ET): Teamwork between driver and crew usually wins the day in NASCAR, but last year's Pocono 500 found a one-sided relationship beneficial for Tony Stewart. "My crew won this race," Stewart said afterward, crediting his chief's critical decision to refuel while Stewart led with just 24 laps to go. When the front-runners later pitted, Stewart had the lead back for good. Stewart and his valuable team defend their title in Long Pond, Pa., today.

"MLB Baseball" Sunday, June 13 (ESPN, 8 p.m. ET): The eighth season of interleague play dictates the AL East meets the NL West, so tonight's matchup in Boston features the Red Sox taking on the Los Angeles Dodgers. Sox fans know good hitting when they see it (and they often do when the B's Manny Ramirez steps to the plate), so they should take note of the Dodgers' Paul Lo Duca and Adrian Beltre, two of the National League's top batsmen. The old adage is good pitching stops good hitting - we may see tonight.

"Boxing" Saturday, June 19 (HBO, 9:45 p.m. ET): Marco Antonio Barrera and Paulie Ayala, former champions looking to re-establish their careers, meet in Carson, Calif., in a scheduled 12-round bout. Barrera (57-4, 40 KOs) is coming off a loss to Manny Pacquiao in November 2003, and a win tonight may put him in line for a rematch. Ayala (35-2, 12 KOs) has fought just once since November 2002, but one advantage he holds tonight is his southpaw style, something Barrera has had trouble dealing with.

Nefertiti Resurrected

The search for the remains of King Tutankhamun's stepmother is detailed in this special, which follows Dr. Joann Fletcher on her quest to locate the tomb of Queen Nefertiti. The major clue was provided by a wig found in the Cairo Museum and believed to have been worn only by Nefertiti's family. The expedition took the Egyptologist to Luxor's ancient royal burial ground, and into a close examination of three unidentified mummies.

Jean Louisa Kelly, Gaby Hoffman and Macaulay Culkin also star.

The adventurous brother and sister, their spy parents (Antonio Banderas, Carla Gugino) and two rival spy kids (Emily Osment, Matt O'Leary) are all on the trail of a mad scientist (Steve Buscemi).

NASCAR Racing

Teamwork between driver and crew usually wins the day in NASCAR, but last year's Pocono 500 found a one-sided relationship beneficial for Tony Stewart. "My crew won this race," Stewart said afterward, crediting his chief's critical decision to refuel while Stewart led with just 24 laps to go. When the front-runners later pitted, Stewart had the lead back for good. Stewart and his valuable team defend their title in Long Pond, Pa., today.

Movie: The Others

Though she initially received more attention for "Moulin Rouge!" Nicole Kidman had another 2001 summer hit with this suspenseful sleeper produced by her ex-husband, Tom Cruise. The supernatural thriller casts her as a woman who literally keeps her two children (Alakina Mann, James Bentley) in the dark, given their extreme sensitivity to sunlight. After new servants arrive, bizarre phenomena begin to affect the household.

Movie: See You in My Dreams

Made in 2000 but having its first telecast now, this adaptation of award-winning Sam Shepard short stories stars Aidan Quinn as a rancher overwhelmed by problems. Unable to start the business he has wanted, he fears his wife — played by Oscar winner Marcia Gay Harden ("Pollock") — will leave him for another man. He's also worried that his son (Will Estes, "American Dreams") will follow in his footsteps.

Six Feet Under

The award-winning drama series about a mortuary-operating family launches its fourth season with "Falling Into Place." Reeling from his loss, Nate (Peter Krause) clashes with others over his effort to do the right thing afterward. David and Keith (Michael C. Hall, Matthew St. Patrick) try to make a fresh start. Claire (Lauren Ambrose) reveals a secret. Ruth (Frances Conroy) seems happy with her new spouse (James Cromwell).

Charles Divins has the music in him

By Paulette Cohn

© Zap2it

Alayne 2004 Men of the Year calendar cutie Charles Divins not only plays music producer Chad Harris on NBC's "Passions," but in his off time, he's making beautiful music with former "American Idol" contender Kimberley Locke.

On her new video, that is. Locke, who finished third behind Ruben Studdard and Clay Aiken, recently released her debut album, "One Love," on Curb Records. The first single from the compact disc was "8th World Wonder."

"Kimberley's manager was watching 'Passions' one day and said, 'We need that guy,'" explains Divins, who admits to not having watched Locke compete on the talent competition. "The schedule just worked out."

Fans of the singer know that "8th World Wonder" tells the story of eight days in the relationship of a woman and the new man in her life, played by Divins.

"It was like the old Hollywood thing, being in the right place at the right time," says the actor, "but it has never happened to me before. They were casting somebody on Wednesday and shooting it on a Thursday."

It may never have happened quite that quickly for him before, but Divins does seem to be on a lucky streak. The Dallas native began his career as a model and had just started to study acting when his agent phoned and said, "Take a chance and go out on this audition." The former Tommy Hilfiger model landed "Passions" on his first audition, and the rest, as they say, is history.

Dear Paulette: What has happened to Mark Corisuelos since leaving "All My Children"? I haven't seen him in anything. -Dianne A., Walnut Creek, Calif.

Dear Reader: Consuelos has been busy working. He starred in a TV movie for ABC Family, "Beautiful Girl," that will re-run Saturday, June 19. Then look for him to join Lifetime's original series "1-800-Missing" in its second season. He plays an FBI agent in the show about a young psychic who works with the Bureau to track down missing persons.

Tuesday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

The Bernie Mac Show

Bryana (Dee Dee Davis) exhibits a big personality change that worries Bernie and Wanda (Bernie Mac, Kellita Smith) in "Five Stages of Bryana." When the formerly sweet-natured girl starts acting like a bully, a child therapist (guest star Simbi Khali Williams, "3rd Rock From the Sun") weighs in with an assessment of the possible reasons. A literal guinea pig factors into the solution.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

8 Simple Rules

A therapist (guest star Peter Bogdanovich) advises Cate (Katey Sagal) to pursue her long-held aspiration to be a singer in "Daddy's Girl." After Jim's (James Garner) wife confirms that they're through via a letter, C.J. (David Spade) takes him out on the town. Veteran actress-singer Connie Stevens guest stars as a barmaid.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Gilmore Girls

Rory (Alexis Bledel) goes back to Stars Hollow for a weekend and encounters Dean (Jared Padalecki), who invites her to his wedding, in "Chicken or Beef." While his bachelor party is raging on, Dean admits that he feels Rory is still the one for him. Lorelai and Sookie (Lauren Graham, Melissa McCarthy) run into a lot of red tape in trying to get their new inn built.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS

Nova

Manfred von Richthofen executed many daring aerial attacks on enemy pilots in the name of Germany, but his reign in the skies ended suddenly — and, for a long time afterward, inexplicably — on April 21, 1918. "Who Killed the Red Baron?" investigates what happened to him, using recently found documents that counter the long-held rationale for his death. The program includes re-creations of World War I airplane duels.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

The Jury

A man (guest star Tom Atkins) goes on trial for the death of his mail-order bride in the new episode "Mail Order Mystery." The defense has a pretty lousy case, but it hopes the victim's body will provide conclusive evidence. The members of the jury consider their own relationships. Barry Levinson, Shalom Harlow and Billy Burke star.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

Summerland

Bradin's (Jesse McCartney) infatuation with a wealthy girl leads him into trouble with Ava (Lori Loughlin), who finds marijuana in his clothes while going through them, in the new episode "Into My Life." Derrick (Nick Benson) resents the surplus of time Johnny (Shawn Christian) spends at work, which impacts a promise Johnny made to him.

9 p.m. on TBS

Sex and the City

How will "the City" be with some of the sex taken out of it? The Emmy-winning comedy series, famous during its HBO run for its racy sights and words, makes its basic-cable debut with "The Real Me." And yes, Samantha (Kim Cattrall) — arguably the show's principal violator of TV taboos — remains a major character, albeit with some redubbing and alternate scenes. Sarah Jessica Parker, Cynthia Nixon and Kristin Davis also star.

The Simple Life 2: Road Trip

Once was not enough for Paris Hilton and Nicole Richie — or at least for Fox, which scored ratings gold with the socialites' first experience away from their privileged lives. This time, instead of settling in one place, they stay on the road in a trailer-pulling pickup as they travel cross-country from Miami Beach back to Beverly Hills. As they were the first time, they're without luxuries like cell phones and credit cards.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Movie: Soul Survivors

A car accident leaves a college student (Melissa Sagemiller, "Get Over It") trapped between the worlds of the living and the dead in this 2001 thriller. A young priest (Luke Wilson) tries to save her soul by reuniting her with her supposedly deceased boyfriend (Casey Affleck). Other acquaintances (Wes Bentley, Eliza Dushku, Angela Featherstone) have intentions for her that aren't nearly as pure.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS

The Forgetting: A Portrait of Alzheimer's

The disease that robs people of their memories, and, in many cases, the ability to function normally is examined in a documentary incorporating personal stories. Animation reveals the specific impacts of Alzheimer's on the brain, but less clinical — and ultimately more poignant — are the stories of the illness' effects on three people and their families. Oscar-winning actress Linda Hunt is the narrator.

7 p.m. on TNN

Movie: The Godfather

This Academy Award-winning 1972 classic stars Marlon Brando as Don Vito Corleone, the head of a powerful New York Mafia family. When an attempt is made on Don Vito's life, his son, Michael (Al Pacino), steps into his father's shoes. Adapted from Mario Puzo's novel and directed by Francis Ford Coppola, the movie also stars James Caan, Robert Duvall, Diane Keaton, Talia Shire and John Marley.

7:30 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Quintuplets

After earning the attention of many critics with his last series, "Andy Richter Controls the Universe," Conan O'Brien's former late-night sidekick goes the sitcom-dad route with the premiere of this series. Richter now plays the father of teenage quintuplets who give him five times the concerns of any parent who's dealing with just one teen. Rebecca Creskoff ("Greetings From Tucson") co-stars as the matriarch of the household.

8:30 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Method & Red

If Will Smith could make the crossover from rap music to mainstream entertainment with a sitcom, why not Method Man and Redman? The two hip-hop stars play the newest residents of an exclusive New Jersey neighborhood as this series premieres. The young fan next door couldn't be happier to have the duo on his block — but for others, the jury may be out for quite a while.

Great Performances

One of classical music's masterpieces receives a thorough examination from celebrated conductor Michael Tilson Thomas in the new episode "Keeping Score: MIT on Music: Tchaikovsky's 4th Symphony." All four movements of the piece are studied in great detail, with members of the San Francisco Symphony — who perform the work under Thomas' baton in an accompanying program — also commenting.

9 p.m. on AMC

Into Character

Certain movie characters seem real to some people, and a number of individuals get to live the lives of their screen heroes in this new series. The premiere episode draws heavily upon Sylvester Stallone's Oscar-winning boxing film "Rocky" as Nate Rubin — as tormented by others in his youth — undergoes intensive training to fight in an actual bout at the Blue Horizon in Rocky Balboa's home base, Philadelphia.

Saturday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Movie: Patch Adams

Robin Williams scored another box-office hit with this true 1998 story of an unconventional medical student. Though the antics of the title character irritate his superiors, they charm patients and one of his peers (Monica Potter). The star gets plenty of chances for his trademark humor, though the film has its dramatic moments, too. One of its producers is former "M*A*S*H" and "Providence" co-star Mike Farrell.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Apollo at 70: A Hot Night in Harlem

One of the most celebrated showplaces in the country marks a milestone, as this new two-hour special draws many talents together to pay homage to the seven-decade history of the Apollo Theater in New York. Denzel Washington, Natalie Cole and Willie Nelson appear; showbiz impresario Quincy Jones is among the producers of the program, which recalls Billie Holiday, Sammy Davis Jr. and other entertainment legends launched by the Apollo.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Sleep: How to Get the Rest of Your Life

With an estimated 70 million Americans afflicted with sleep disorders, a good night's rest may seem an impossible goal. Not so, says Dr. Nancy Snyderman, host of this new special examining various treatments and suggestions for attaining the recommended amount of rest. Snyderman denies herself sleep for four days straight, to demonstrate how much one's memory and abilities can be impacted by such deprivation.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Crime & Punishment

A teenager stands trial for alleged kidnapping and child molestation as this unscripted series presents the new episode "People v. Tianna Thomas & People v. Charles Mambane." The youth is accused of abducting and sexually harming an 8-year-old girl, and also of trying to do the same to a 4-year-old.

(Ratings for each film begin with a "star" rating - one star meaning "poor," four meaning "excellent" - followed by the Motion Picture Association of America rating, and then by a family-viewing guide, the key for which appears below.)

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"50 FIRST DATES": Reteamed after their successful pairing in "The Wedding Singer," Adam Sandler and Drew Barrymore prove delightful as different characters in this Hawaii-set comedy. Sandler plays a confirmed-bachelor veterinarian who reconsiders his love-life status when he meets a beguiling beauty. (Barrymore). The problem? She can't remember him, since she has short-term memory caused by a car accident ... forcing him to find a way to remain in her mind and heart. Rob Schneider, Sean Astin and Dan Aykroyd co-star. DVD extras: "making-of" documentary; audio commentary by Barrymore and director Peter Segal; deleted scenes; outtakes; Comedy Central "Real Comedy" featurette; HBO "First Look" special; Hawaiian-slang featurette; music videos. *** (PG-13: AS, P)

"THE STATION AGENT": Actor Peter Dinklage earned rave reviews for his moving performance in writer-director Thomas McCarthy's engrossing drama about a short-stature man (Dinklage) who moves into the abandoned New Jersey train station he inherits. His seclusion is ended by his new connections to a refreshment seller (Bobby Cannavale, "Third Watch") and an artist (Patricia Clarkson) impacted by personal tragedy. Michelle Williams

("Dawson's Creek") and Paul Benjamin co-star. DVD extras: audio commentary by McCarthy; deleted scenes. *** (R: AS, P)

"SPARTAN": Noted playwright David Mamet puts cerebral spins on the action genre as the writer-director of this twisty-turny adventure, which casts Val Kilmer as a Special Ops veteran enlisted to retrieve the U.S. president's kidnapped daughter (Kristen Bell). Just as he's on the verge of recovering her, the mission is terminated - but that doesn't stop him from following through. Longtime Mamet colleague William H. Macy co-stars, along with Derek Luke ("Antwone Fisher") and Tia Texada ("Third Watch"). DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentary by Kilmer. *** (R: AS, P, V)

"TOUCHING THE VOID": An incredible but true story is dramatized by director Kevin Macdonald in this intense film, recounting the 1985 effort by young climbers Joe Simpson and Simon Yates (played by Brendan Mackey and Nicholas Aaron) to reach the peak of the perilous Siula Grande mountain in the Peruvian Andes. They succeeded, but on the way down, Simpson was critically injured ... forcing Yates to make an unthinkable choice to guarantee his own survival. The real climbers talk about their ordeal. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; "making-of" documentaries. *** (Not rated: AS, P)

DEAD LIKE ME: THE COMPLETE FIRST SEASON: Killed when a falling space-station chunk lands on her, caustic young George (Ellen Muth) is introduced to the afterlife in this darkly comedic Showtime series. She's guided through her new surroundings by Rube (Mandy Patinkin), who shows her that she's basically starting her life over from scratch. Rebecca Gayheart, Cynthia Stevenson ("Agent Cody Banks"), Jasmine Guy ("A Different World"), Callum Blue and Laura Harris ("24") also star. DVD extras: "making-of" documentaries; audio commentary by cast members; deleted scenes; character "obituaries"; photo gallery. *** (Not rated: AS, P, V)

"NIP/TUCK: THE COMPLETE FIRST SEASON": Those who seek the services of plastic surgeons feel they have imperfections that could stand improvement. In this controversial, smartly written and occasionally graphic drama series - which hits video just before the show's second season begins on FX - the doctors have their own flaws, although they're more emotional than physical. Julian McMahon ("Profiler") and Dylan Walsh ("Congo") star as Christian and Sean, partners in a Miami practice. Joely Richardson and John Hensley play Sean's wife and son. DVD extras: "making-of" documentaries; "Realistic Expectations: The Practice of Plastic Surgery" featurette; outtakes; music video; preview of the series' second season. *** (Not rated: AS, P, V)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

Women of 'Deadwood' demand equal time in hit HBO drama

When HBO's "Deadwood," which wraps its first season Sunday, June 13, premiered in March, it was probably inevitable that the male characters - which included a hard-drinking Wild Bill Hickok (Keith Carradine) and a satanic town boss named Al Swearengen (Ian McShane) - held center stage with their unpredictable eruptions of violence and their good-grief-did-he-just-say-what-I-think-he-said profanity, which could have been culled from the latest dialogue track of "The Sopranos."

As the Western drama has unfolded, however, series creator David Milch has widened his scope to encompass the show's female characters as well. In fact, Milch's central female trinity - fragile widow Alma Garret (Molly Parker), resourceful prostitute Trixie (Paula Malcomson) and raucous, self-loathing "Calamity" Jane Cannary (Robin Weigert) - has become so multifaceted and fascinating that they're reason in themselves for tuning into HBO's latest series smash.

"The women have emerged more strongly as we got deeper into the stories," says Malcomson, who hails from Belfast, Northern Ireland. "At first, frankly, we were a bit worried about how to give the women their voices, because most of their needs were tied somehow to the men. But that's just the way it was back then."

Parker, who has built a successful career mainly in independent films, says she is delighted to be a part of "Deadwood," although she definitely had initial qualms about playing a character who was drugged and almost totally recessive in her early scenes.

"I haven't done much television before this, so I was used to looking at a script and getting a clear idea of my character's 'journey' from start to finish," she explains. "Obviously, I didn't have that here, but I sat down with David Milch and he started talking - he's a great talker, a wonderful storyteller - and he told me about where Alma came from and where she might be going."

When viewers first met Alma, she was arriving in Deadwood as the recent bride of wealthy Brom Garret (Timothy Omundson, "Judging Amy"), an Eastern dilettante seeking a gold claim. Despite her fine clothing and well-bred manner, however, Alma was a junkie.

"I read 'The Age of Innocence' again to understand the world Alma came from," Parker says. "She has spent her life doing what she is supposed to do for her family, for her father, for society at large. She had become addicted to laudanum, which was an opiate they gave to women for hysteria - because god forbid women became hysterical!"

In addition to her reading about the period, Parker said she got vivid insight into Alma's constricted world via the painstakingly re-created period costumes. Katherine Jane Bryant has designed for the series.

"I'm basically covered up from my feet all the way to my chin, and those corsets! They are so constricting, I had to learn how to breathe differently while wearing them," Parker says. "It's almost shocking how much that affects, because you can't really draw a full breath, so you find yourself speaking in a soft, measured way, and shouting, of course, is out of the question."

Costumes are the least of Malcomson's concerns. As Trixie, the prostitute who becomes Alma's unlikely ally and protector after the latter's husband is murdered by claim-jumpers, the actress spends most of her scenes in period undies - or less, on occasion.

Still, there were other challenges involved in playing the woman whose past is perhaps the most ambiguous of any character on the show.

"Playing Trixie is like working with pieces of a puzzle," Malcomson laughs good-naturedly. "It's not like doing a movie, where you can create a solid back story. Anything can happen on a weekly TV show. I might imagine that Trixie had 14 brothers and sisters and they're all dead; then suddenly they show up in an episode. You never know."

"What I try to do with her is focus on her needs of the moment at any given time, make them the most important thing: her need to survive, to deal with her immediate life there."

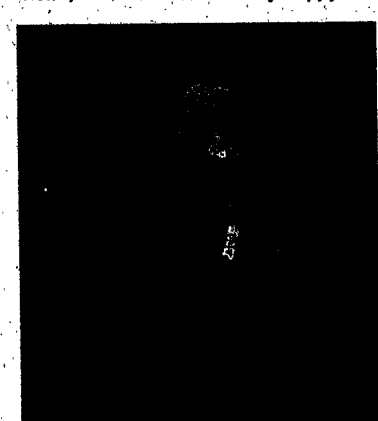

Like Parker, Malcomson turned to Milch for reassurance that her character wasn't going to be just sexy window dressing while the menfolk carried the drama.

"When I was preparing for the role, I asked Milch if there was anything in particular he'd like me to read, because he's very literary. I figured I'd read up on prostitutes of that era, but he said, 'No, just the opposite. Just read about faith.' Trixie is capable of a lot. You can't pin her down, and I think that's true of most people in real life: As you get to know them, you realize they aren't a particular type, they're very complicated. It's really a testament to David Milch, how well he captures that in his writing."

Weigert, a stage veteran, found plenty of reading material on Calamity Jane, but quickly noticed a big problem.

"No one can agree on her, it seems, because everything I read contradicted everything else I had read," Weigert says. "I think it's safe to say she was an independent spirit who was completely self-reliant. She's living in what essentially is a very rough, if not all-male, environment, so she uses bluster and profanity almost like armor."

"I gratefully rely on David Milch's wonderful writing to show me the way, but Jane Alexander (who played the same character in the 1984 TV movie "Calamity Jane") also gave me some good advice while we were filming. I would e-mail her. She's become a good friend, which makes me very happy."

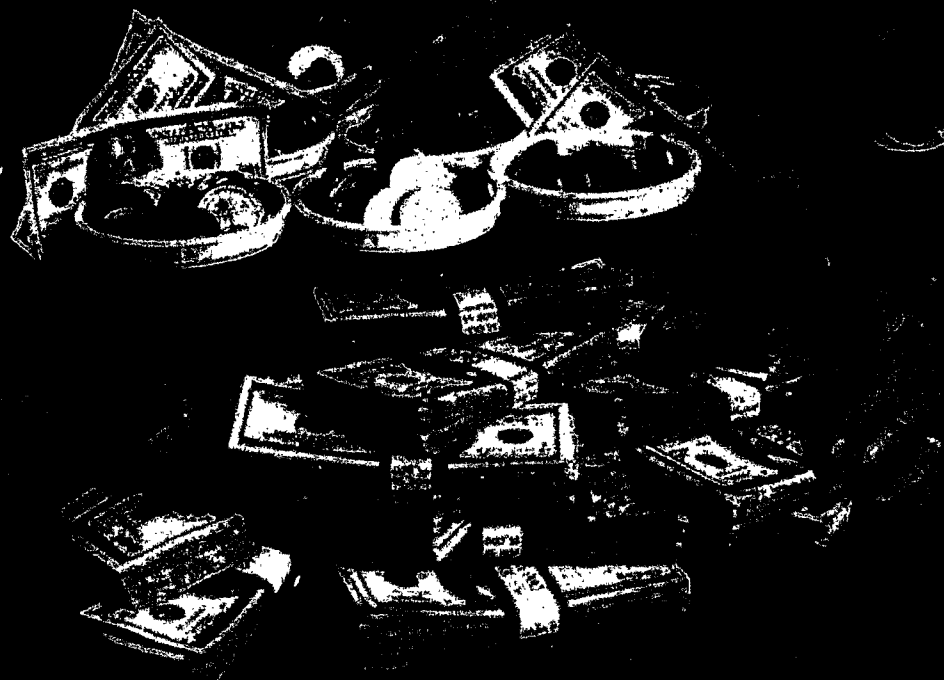

Molly Parker stars as wealthy widow Alma Garret in "Deadwood," HBO's hit Western series which concludes its first season Sunday. Production begins on season two in July.
